$1.6 Million Hadler Home Facility Approved

Common Council Solves Pike Canopies

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON

The Common Council cleared the way for the implementation of the Pike Plan on Wall Street as part of the Uptown Urban Renewal plan while also giving the Hadler Nursing Home approval to construct a $1.6 million facility in Broadway East, at its regular monthly meeting at city hall Tuesday night.

Phase I of the Pike Plan for the renovation of the Uptown business district into a turn of the century motif was bid in six weeks ago at $146,000 but immediate legal problems arose. The plan calls for the construction of canopies over the sidewalks on Wall Street and North Front Street and under the city charter, the city's department of public works would have been responsible for maintenance and repairs on the canopies. The Council solved that problem last night, agreeing that the city will maintain and repair the canopies but charging the cost of same back to the respective property owners in the form of a special assessment.

That clears the way for the project which is expected to go into construction next month.

New ordinance restricts street vendors' operations. Story on page 25.

The problem with the Hadler Nursing Home was that the land it will be built on had previously been designated in the Broadway East plan as a park area. The Council amended the plan to allow the construction of the nursing home and officially designated an area to the south in front of Rondout Gardens as a park area. The Kingston Urban Renewal Agency built a park there several years ago and will expand it.

Another request for a plan change—in the Uptown project—from the agency to allow the construction of 120,000 feet of office space was referred to the Urban Renewal Committee for further study. The five-acre parcel is located at the junction of Washington and Hurley Avenues and is the last available major parcel in the Uptown project.

In other action, the aldermen heard a report on the Perennial Homes Project off Maple Street from the Rev. John H. Gilmore, director of the city's Human Relations Commission.

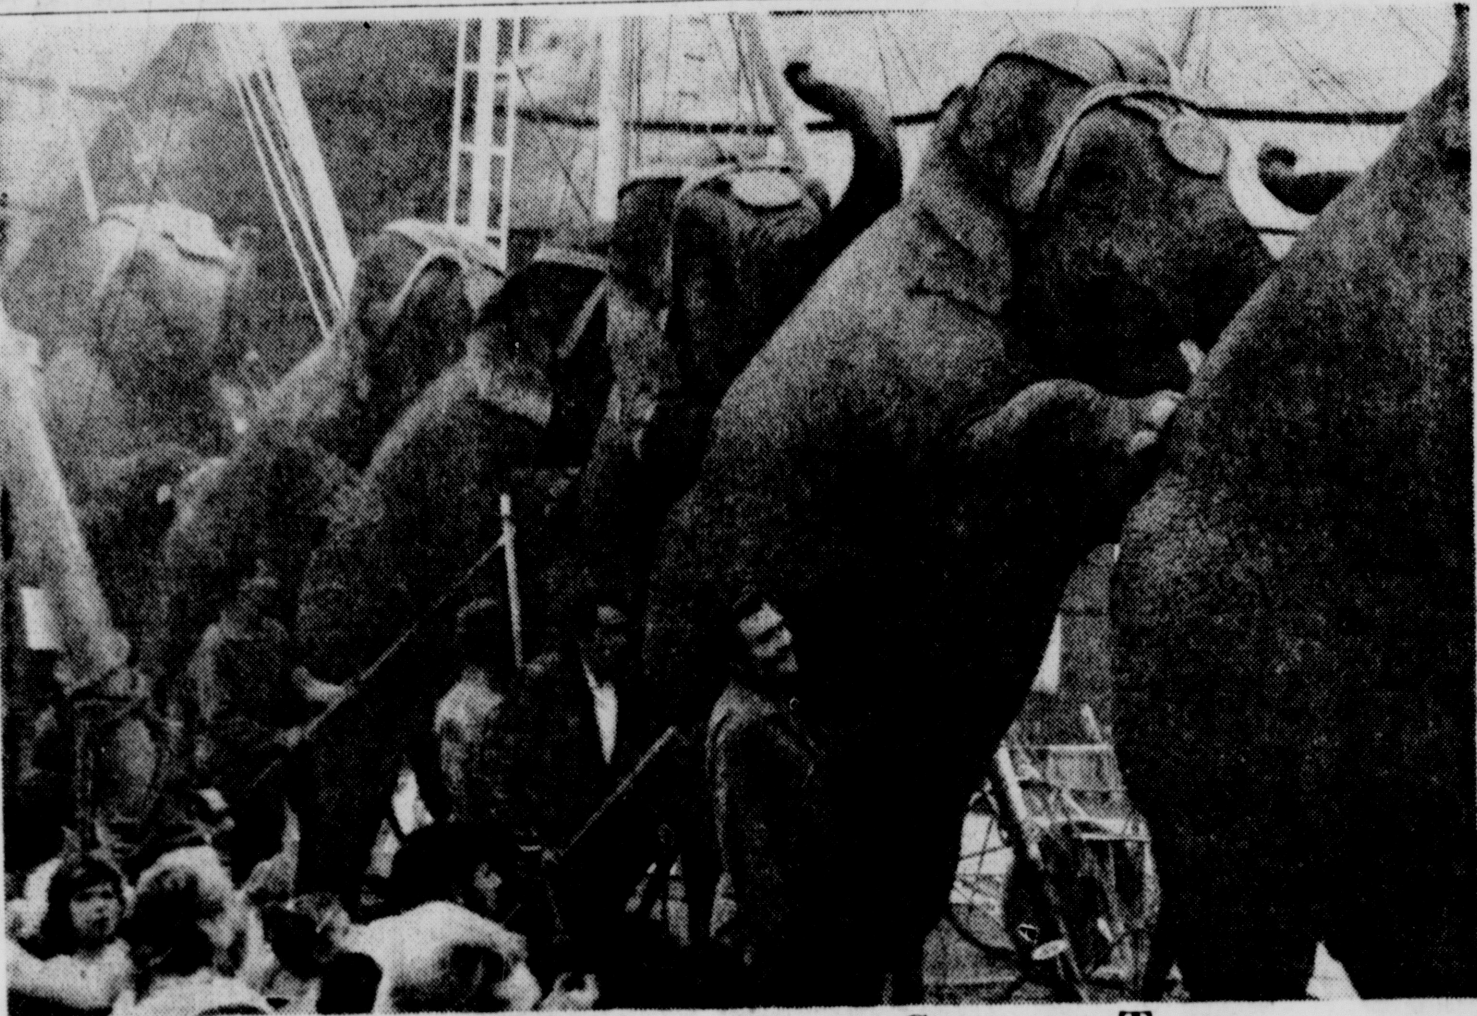

The Rev. Mr. Gilmore asked for a special Common Council Committee to be named to investigate the situation which he said first came to his attention in April of last year. Gilmore said that homeowners have been given "one continuous run around" on their complaints of shoddy construction. "We have come to the conclusion that the city was just taken," he said. Council President T. Robert Gallo is taking the request for a special investigatory committee under advisement.

Parking meters were also a topic of discussion, with Alderman Peter J. Mancuso (D-12th Ward), proposing the replacement of all the city's 750 meters over the next four years at an annual cost of some $11,000. Mancuso, who said "the situation (with broken meters) is becoming worse every year," suggested 200 new meters should be purchased this year. He also noted that the city has suffered a decrease in parking meter receipts of some $5,000 from last year. His resolution was referred to the Finance, Ways and Means Committee for study.

The aldermen also gave Mayor Francis R. Koenig permission to apply to the State Urban Renewal Assistance Program for $73,650 as the state's share of the city's concentrated code enforcement program (the Home Improvement Program) which is being carried out primarily in the central Broadway section of the city.

And, the aldermen voted to give themselves first option on buying back their old desks, now being stored at the vacated city hall at 408 Broadway. It appears the aldermen also voted themselves a bargain: the desks and chairs were appraised at $45 wholesale and $95 retail; the aldermen will be allowed to purchase them for $10 each. They have 30 days to exercise their option.

Pachyderms Parade as Circus Comes to Town

The circus came to town Tuesday with all thrills and a three ring extravaganza can provide. In true big top tradition, one of the highlights of the performance was the pachyderms on parade. Crowds thronged to Dietz

Stadium for two performances of the Clyde Beatty-Cole Brothers Circus brought to Kingston under the auspices of the local Kiwanis Club. (Freeman photo by Haines)

Plan Several Moves For County Offices

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON

A plan to provide much needed office space for Ulster County will be unveiled at the Thursday, meeting of the County Legislature by Legislator Robert H. Kuhlmann (R-Dist. 10) and County Planning Director Herbert Hekler.

It provides for some major moves involving the County House, Wall Street Jail, County Highway Department and the Flatbush Avenue Infirmary.

Included are a $150,000 renovation of the County House, the consolidation of the Highway Department offices to one location on Quarry Road, the gutting of the jail and its renovation at a cost of $40,000 and the moving of the entire Welfare Department to the Flatbush Infirmary.

Kuhlmann said the cost estimates are ball park figures and that financing may be obtained from Federal revenue sharing funds. In addition, application will be made for the historic preservation funding program for renovation of the old court house.

DOT Master Plan recommends two new Ulster airports for the future. Story on page 2.

Kuhlmann said the proposals will be made to the Legislature at its 4 p.m. session in the County Office Building and that following the meeting, the Finance Committee and the Building Committee will meet to discuss the proposal and hopefully come up with a resolution for the July Legislature meeting which will advance the plan.

He stressed that the proposals are all "tentative" and that his committee is seeking the viewpoint of other legislators. We have been working on this for over a year, Kuhlmann explained, saying that there is presently an urgency to move ahead because the Department of Social Services required more space, the County Court House is overcrowded and "hazardous conditions exist."

"We have tried to touch every base," he said, "and spend as little money as possible so that we will not be mortgaging our children's future."

Proposed projects are listed in order of their priority:

● Court House — The Sheriff's Department will be vacating its offices in the next month in preparation for its move to the new jail on Golden Hill. The architectural plan for renovation of the Court House has been prepared and allows that the ground and upper floors housing the district attorney's present offices and the women's detention center be completely renovated for permanent office space. The basement and kitchen and storage rooms would be renovated for storage.

The office of district attorney now has 1,200 square feet and an additional 2,200 square feet is requested. These needs would require occupancy of the first and second floors of the sheriff's wing of the building. The basement would be for storage, the third floor housing the cell block would be given for the grand jury. The entire wing would be rehabilitated with proper wiring, heating and air conditioning.

● County Highway Department — The department is presently consolidating its offices from Manor Avenue to Quarry Road with the new building expected to be completed by early summer, 1974. The Manor Avenue site would be retained as a permanent home for the Tax Mapping Department and the garage would be converted for record storage.

● Wall Street Jail — As soon as possible the jail would be gutted and renovated for the Family Court, Probation Department and future court rooms. The basement would be used for storage and detention rooms.

The jail has a gross area of 12,450 square feet plus a full basement. With a 30 per cent loss for stairs, bathrooms, elevators etc., the net office space would be about 8,700 square feet. Family Court requests 3,000 square feet and probation requests 4,700. Space would also be available for a new court room and Judge's office. It is estimated that renovation would take one and one-half years.

● Flatbush Infirmary — The Social Services Department would take over the entire Flatbush Infirmary Building including the third floor now occupied by the Tax Mapping Department. The project would take about two years and provide a permanent home for the Social Services Department and free 9,200 square feet of space.

Laird Returning to Nixon Administration

WASHINGTON (U.P.) — Ehrlichman, who resigned April 30 along with three other top aides of President Nixon, today announced his return to the administration as Nixon's staff chief, H. R. "Bob" Haig, his chief domestic advisor and Haldeman.

Haig, who will retire from the would retire from the Army Aug. 1, has been filling Haldeman's shoes. It was not stated specifically that Haig would now become chief of White House staff, decimated by resignations and firings as a staff on a permanent basis but informed sources said that was likely. Bryce N. Harlow, a former White House aide, was prominently mentioned as another possible Nixon appointee to his shattered staff.

Laird, lured out of temporary retirement, will take over the job formerly held by John D. Haig's appointment has been criticized by some in Congress and elsewhere since Laird had resisted returning to government after leaving at the end of Nixon's first administration.

Meanwhile, former Nixon campaign treasurer Hugh W. Sloan Jr. testified today he was told "you don't want to know" when he asked why former Attorney General John N. Mitchell approved funneling huge sums of cash to Watergate conspirator G. Gordon Liddy last spring.

Sloan, calmly describing for the Senate Watergate Committee how he disbursed more than $1 million in cash to various Nixon campaign aides and White House staffers in the months preceding the bugging of Democratic headquarters, said he generally didn't question what the money was for.

But he said he finally balked when Liddy — then finance counsel for the campaign — casually showed him a $250,000 budget and said he would be dropping by soon to pick up an initial $83,000 in cash.

Sloan, reciting the same story before nationwide television cameras that he has told investigators in private, said he went to former Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans, then the campaign finance chief, and complained that this request was "totally out of line with anything we've done before."

Sloan said he asked Stans if Liddy was right when he said his authority to draw the cash had come from Jeb Stuart Magruder, then deputy campaign manager under Mitchell.

On Tuesday, former White House advisor John D. Ehrlichman gave sworn testimony that he was told that John N. Mitchell approved the bugging of Watergate and two other wiretap operations.

Ehrlichman's testimony was in the form of a 242-page sworn deposition which he gave in May in connection with a $6.4 million civil damage suit which the Democrats filed against Republican campaign officials over the Watergate incident.

Ehrlichman's allegations with respect to former Attorney General Mitchell were attributed to Jeb Stuart Magruder, who served as Mitchell's deputy after Mitchell left the Justice Department to direct President Nixon's re-election campaign.

Ehrlichman was Nixon's chief domestic advisor until he resigned at the end of April as a result of the Watergate case. He reported in his deposition that there was considerable bad blood between Magruder and Watergate conspirator G. Gordon Liddy. He quoted Magruder as saying Liddy once threatened to kill him.

Additional Arrests Expected in City Scandal

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON

The Ulster County District attorney's office will be making "additional arrests, possibly late today," in connection with the widening scandal involving missing money in the city treasurer's office. The Freeman learned today.

"There will be additional arrests," District Attorney of Francis J. Vogt told The Freeman. "We've pretty well Program Home Improvement local investigation. narrowed it down to two or three people. We're sure of at least one. It's possible there might be an arrest today on it."

Vogt met with City Detective Joseph Feraca and Gene Fleishman, an auditor from the firm of Ronder and Ronder, which is conducting the special audit of the city's books, in his office this morning. "We're still waiting for verification from property owners whose taxes are unpaid in the books," Vogt said.

This aspect of the investigation surrounds some $2,500 in missing money, allegedly paid in cash by a number of taxpayers but never entered in the city's books. It is alleged that the money was stolen.

Vogt said he was not at liberty to release any names of prime suspects until a warrant is issued and an arrest is made. "We want to nail this thing down before we make any (public) statements on it," Vogt said.

Only 24 hours ago it was announced by city police that John H. Houghtaling, 36, prison blues. Police say they principal account clerk in the treasurer's office for the past 15 years, had been arrested and charged with third degree grand larceny and petit larceny in connection with a forged check to the Ulster County Grand Jury.

The Freeman also learned today that there is a possibility that the State Department of Treasury's office between Audit and Control will conduct a separate audit of the city's books in the wake of the September of this year, which includes a books in the discrepancies uncovered through

Police allege that Houghtaling stole some $1,600 from the city's treasury's office between September of 1971 and April 1 a separate audit of the city's books in the wake of the September of this year, which includes a books in the discrepancies uncovered through

Fair was in the custody of the Ulster County Sheriff's Department when he escaped at 11:30 a.m. Monday from Benedictine Hospital. He had been taken to the hospital for treatment of a stomach ailment, according to authorities.

Before his arrest at 8:30 a.m. today, Fair was last seen running along Broadway in his car, tried to trap the surprised escapee.

Police said that Fair resisted, and a struggle ensued between him and Mahoney. The police officer managed to slap handcuffs on one of Fair's wrists.

According to state police, BCI Investigator Michael J. Mahoney was driving his car south on Route 209 at about 8:30 a.m. today when he spotted Fair walking along the shoulder of the highway. Mahoney stopped the car, jumped out and tried to trap the surprised escapee.

Police said that Fair resisted, and a struggle ensued between him and Mahoney. The police officer managed to slap handcuffs on one of Fair's wrists.

had notified the city to contact the state in regards to its current investigation. "Frankly, I thought it had been done already," Vogt said today. Vogt said he had contacted Police Chief Julius M. Glassman this past weekend inquiring if the state had been notified of the city's investigation into the activities of its treasurer's office. The state had not been notified, Vogt said. He then contacted City Treasurer Thomas R. Lyle (on Monday). Lyle has notified the state.

The state completed a three-year audit of the city only a few months ago (its report was released on Feb. 27) and reported that the city was conducting its fiscal affairs within the limits of the law.

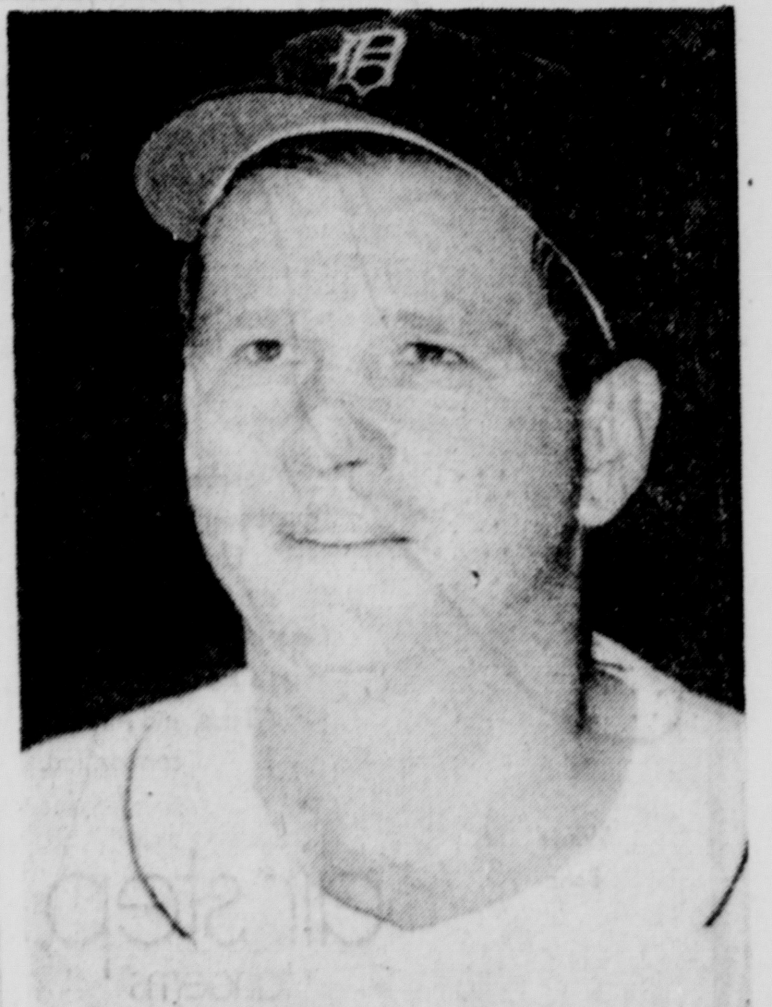

The audit covered the period from Jan. 1, 1969 to Dec. 31, 1971.

Disclosure of discrepancies in the city treasurer's office was first made public on May 8 when Lyle and Corporation Counsel Aaron E. Klein announced that a special audit had turned up an "approximate shortage" of $2,500 in the treasurer's office.

EX-MAJOR LEAGUER ARRESTED — Gerald E. (Gerry) Priddy, 33, former second baseman for the Detroit Tigers, the New York Yankees and other teams, has been arrested on charges of trying to extort $250,000 from the Princess Cruises steamship lines with a threat that bombs were aboard a passenger liner at sea. According to the FBI, officers on the passenger liner Island Princess searched and found suspicious packages on the bridge and in the engine room and threw them overboard. Report Murdered MD Insured for $490,000

Police Say Beneficiaries Not Suspects

WOODBOURNE, N.Y. (AP) — Police have learned that Dr. Jose F. Gil, the 36-year-old Woodbourne doctor who was shot and killed Saturday afternoon by what state police describe as a "professional gunman," was insured for $490,000 at the time of his death. The beneficiaries are Dr. Gil's estranged wife, and his elderly parents, who live in Woodbourne. Dr. Gil's wife and his parents will reportedly receive equal shares of the death benefit.

State police from Orange County, however, emphasize that the beneficiaries are not suspects in the case.

With that, police said they have widened their search for the killer, described as a white male in his mid-20's with black hair, a moustache and a close-cropped beard. An artist's sketch of the suspected killer has been distributed to police agencies throughout the Northeast, said police.

Police investigators are also combing sections of New York City and Newburgh where Dr. Gil resided and worked in the past.

Police have learned that Dr. Gil was a partner in a New York City laboratory, and that the $490,000 insurance policy was taken out by the laboratory to protect the other partners if they were separated and his insured person died. But after dissolving the partnership, Dr. Gil was fatally shot while making a supposed house call on an isolated road outside the village of Woodbourne. Police believe the house call was a hoax to lure Dr. Gil to the area, where the gunman was waiting.

Two Ulster County Airports Recommended by DOT Plan

KINGSTON — "The plan has no immediacy whatsoever," Assemblyman H. Clark Bell said today. "It is nothing more than the department's way of saying, 'This is the way it should be done by 1990, if we have the money.'"

Estimating it would cost at least $1 billion, Bell said he doesn't have the money.

Bell, County Legislature Chairman Peter J. Savago (R-Dist. 8) and Herbert Hekler, county planning director, all said they have only had the plan for about a day and have not had time to digest the entire report which covers every mode of transportation from mass transit to bicycles and pipelines.

But, Hekler said, the major shift in this plan, is the giving of greater emphasis to rail transit and a reduction in rural highways.

Hekler and the Planning Board testified at previous public hearings six months ago on the former master plan saying that such change in emphasis would affect Ulster County detrimentally.

Now with the pendulum swinging even wider toward mass transit, Ulster County will be sacrificed, Hekler predicted. Critical highway conditions exist in Kingston, Saugerties, New Paltz and Ellenville which won't be solved by mass transit, he said. New arterials are needed. He and the planners will propose the latest plan also, he predicted.

A good many of Ulster County Legislators can foresee no particular need for the airports in the locations suggested. They point out that, Ellenville area, which has only one major industry and four of the Catskill's larger resort hotels, would have little use for the airport.

Most of the county's business and industry is in the northern part of the county and is served by Kingston-Ulster Airport.

Savago questioned what DOT means when it refers to a general aviation airport. He recalled that DOT once proposed Stewart Airport as a general airport facility. And now it's a jetport, he said.

It is reported that the master plan suggests that the airports to be constructed in Ulster County could be built by the towns in which they are located or by the county.

Ulster County Airport Commission Chairman and County Legislator Harry C. Kapreilian (R-City) said today he is contacting DOT Commissioner Raymond T. Shuler to obtain further details of the master plan proposal.

Meeting Proposed On Traffic Problem

KINGSTON — ment officials at DOT's Poughkeepsie Regional Office in order to determine a sharing of responsibility for the cost and maintenance of changing the traffic signal. Presently, Big Scot, which paid for the signal, also pays for its maintenance. A three-way, red, yellow and green signal now faces the Big Scot side of the light while a flashing red light exists on Howard Johnson's side. It has been reported that most of the accidents stem from improper judgments on the part of people leaving the Howard Johnson roadway and entering Rt. 28.

A meeting at which it is hoped a traffic problem on Rt. 28 at the entrance to Big Scot and Howard Johnson's can be rectified has been proposed by the State Department of Transportation.

In response to a letter sent by local radio executive Harry M. Thayer, DOT has issued a report on conditions at the intersection which has been the scene of many accidents, and most recently, a fatality.

DOT suggests that representatives of Big Scot and Howard Johnson meet with State Transportation Department officials at DOT's Poughkeepsie Regional Office in order to determine a sharing of responsibility for the cost and maintenance of changing the traffic signal. Another Gunfight in NYC Claims Patrolman's Life

NEW YORK (UPI) — Police on speculation that the BLA found the wounded suspect and called for an ambulance. Police said witnesses told them that shots were heard shortly after Thompson, a plainclothesman, took Cumberbatch into the waiting room. Monday night a police officer batch into the waiting room was wounded and two half-brothers were shot to death during a wild exchange of fire in a Brooklyn tenement.

The policeman, shot in the head, neck and chest, died about four hours later at Jacob Hospital.

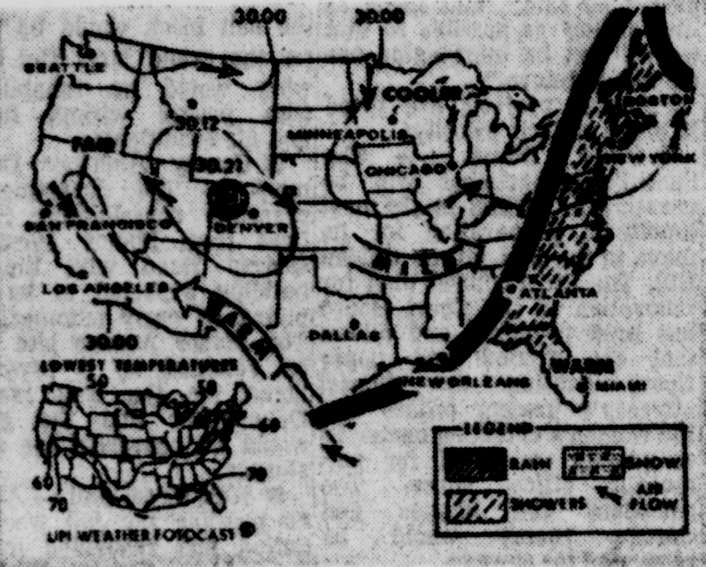

A second man apparently helped the wounded Cumberbatch secure a car at gunpoint outside the station, police said. The car was abandoned at a nearby park, where bystanders

Ellsberg Talks to Grand Jury

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A county grand jury probing the burglary of the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist heard testimony Tuesday from Ellsberg and 10 other witnesses. It awaited appearances later in the week by former presidential advisor John D. Ehrlichman and three Watergate conspirators.

Ehrlichman's Los Angeles attorney, Joseph Ball, said Ehrlichman will appear voluntarily before the grand jury on Friday. A district attorney spokesman said other former White House officials including Charles Colson are expected to testify before the inquiry ends.

Dist. Atty. Joseph Busch, emerging from the grand jury room after a day of questioning witnesses in secret session, said he expects the hearings to be concluded by Friday and "then we'll be at a place where we can talk."

Busch has not said whether he will seek indictments.

Ellsberg, who was the first witness to testify, observed in a talk with reporters that those who have been named as the actual intruders at the psychiatrist's office have been given immunity from prosecution for their testimony. He said he thinks this indicates that authorities here are seeking information aimed at filing charges against "higher-ups" who planned the break-in.

Other witnesses included hard-baked Barker and Eugenio Martinez, who will testify Wednesday. Ellsberg's psychiatrist and seven Beverly Hills policemen also expected to testify is Cuban exile Felipe De Diego, the White House.

The district attorney spokesman said Watergate conspirators E. Howard Hunt, Bernard Barker and Eugenio Martinez will testify Wednesday. Ellsberg's psychiatrist and seven Beverly Hills policemen also expected to testify is Cuban exile Felipe De Diego, the White House.

Ellsberg, emerging from the grand jury room after a half-hour of testimony, said he believes the Nixon administration hoped to use his psychiatric records for a smear against one or more presidential candidates.

But he said the intruders probably were disappointed to find that the records contained nothing that could relate to Sen. Edmund Muskie or other candidates.

"I frankly think they weren't after information to use in my prosecution, but to use in a political campaign," Ellsberg said. He added that the administration apparently hoped to link his name to a candidate and then use psychiatric records to "portray me as a less palatable person."

Ellsberg 42, was a defendant with Anthony Russo in the Pentagon papers trial which ended last month with dismissal of all charges.

Key Watergate Events

WASHINGTON (AP) — At a glance here are the key events in the Watergate affair Tuesday:

EHRLICHMAN — Former presidential advisor John D. Ehrlichman, in a deposition last month made public Tuesday, said he was told G. Gordon Liddy threatened to kill Jeb S. Magruder, deputy director of President Nixon's re-election committee, in an outburst around mid-March 1972. Ehrlichman testified Magruder also told him John N. Mitchell approved the wiretapping of Democratic national headquarters.

SENATE HEARING — Robert A. Reiser, an aide to Magruder on the re-election committee, testified that two weeks before the Watergate break-in he put papers from the "Gemstone" political espionage file into an envelope prepared for a meeting Magruder was to have with Mitchell. Sally J. Harmony, secretary to Liddy, gave the committee a stenographer's view of typing memoranda, some on the Gemstone stationery, from sources known to her only as "Ruby One," "Ruby Two" and "Crystal."

NIXON — Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said at the White House there will be a review of whether logs detailing conversations between President Nixon and his ousted counsel, John W. Dean III, will be made available to the committee.

WIRETAPPINGS — Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, trying to counter what he called a "general get-the-President process," contended the Nixon administration has cut down on national security wiretaps and bug listening to the lowest level since World War II.

Kissinger and Tho Are Talking Again

PARIS (UPI) — Henry A. Kissinger and his Hanoi counterpart, Le Duc Tho, began a new and possibly final round of talks today on turning the Vietnam cease-fire into real peace.

Both men expressed guarded optimism Tuesday night about the chances of success in this latest in their long series of meetings.

Kissinger said the talks, which resume a round with Tho that ended May 22, may result in agreement on ending the violations of the Vietnam truce.

"If we continue the progress and the cooperative spirit that was shown last time, then the prospects are reasonably good that we might conclude in this round," Kissinger told newsmen when he arrived from Washington.

"I will continue with Mr. Le Duc Tho the review of the implementation of the agreement to end the war and restore peace in Vietnam," Kissinger said. "On our side, we shall certainly spare no effort to strengthen the peace in Indochina."

After the May meetings, Kissinger said he and Tho made "significant progress" in their talks.

"I have always been optimistic and I am still optimistic now," Tho said when asked about the chances of success.

"But there are many difficulties ahead."

The meeting today took place at an American owned villa in suburban Gif sur Yvette.

Kissinger and Tho conferred for 30 hours between May 17 and 22 on conflicting charges that the two sides were violating the spirit and letter of the Jan. 27 truce agreement signed in Paris.

After those talks, Deputy Assistant Secretary of State William H. Sullivan flew to Saigon to confer with President Nguyen Van Thieu. Sullivan returned to Paris last weekend and since then has conducted about 13 hours of preliminary discussions with Tho's chief aide, Nguyen Co Thach.

Kissinger was accompanied for the first time at his many Paris talks by White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler. Asked why Ziegler was included in the party, Kissinger joked: "He's taking over my job."

Meanwhile, Congress has given Kissinger at least a week—probably longer if he needs it—to work for a new Indochina cease-fire agreement.

House and Senate conferees Tuesday suspended action until next Monday on legislation to cut off funds for the air war in Cambodia as Kissinger left Paris to renew negotiations with Tho.

The conferees met for two hours on a supplemental appropriations bill Monday and did not even discuss antiwar amendments which both houses voted to add to the bill.

They decided to suspend further talks this week because of a crowded schedule in the House and denied that the delay had anything to do with Kissinger's trip.

But the postponement will permit U.S. bombers to continue pounding Communist troops in Cambodia while Kissinger attempts in Paris to elicit a solid North Vietnamese promise to withdraw its forces from the area.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers told the House Foreign Affairs Committee Tuesday the bombing would continue until the North Vietnamese come to terms. He said the U.S. air offensive was "the strongest possible weapon" to ensure compliance with the cease-fire and gave no indication how long the administration intends to keep it up.

Both the House and Senate have overwhelmingly approved amendments to the supplemental bill calling for an end to U.S. military operations "in, over or from the shores" of Cambodia. The Senate version is mandatory, cutting off all funds for the air war, while the House measure only prevents the Defense Department from transferring funds to pay for the war.

Japan Declines Request

SAIGON (UPI) — South Vietnam said today it asked Japan to replace Canada on the chief Vietnam peace-keeping force, but that Japan declined on grounds its constitution forbids any international military activities.

Foreign Ministry spokesman Pham Dang Sum said Saigon turned to Japan because it believed Japan was a "powerful" Asian country that could play a full, fair role in helping keeping the peace in South Vietnam.

"It was the first nation we contacted," Sum said. "Japan answered that it cannot take part because its constitution does not permit it to do so."

Canada announced last week that it intends to withdraw from the International Commission of Control and Supervision (ICCS) on July 31 because a dispute has prevented it from fully carrying out its peace-keeping role. The other three members, Poland, Indochina and Hungary, have indicated they will not withdraw.

South Vietnam disputed Japan's rejection by saying it could send civilians to join the ICCS team instead of military men.

Asked if South Vietnam preferred a replacement from Asia or from Europe, Sum said, "Any country that is impartial and effective can be considered."

Meanwhile, a three-week-old stalemate within the ICCS showed no sign of ending and informed sources said they expect no moves to break the deadlock before the end of the week.

The dispute hinges on the question of unanimous agreement "in all decisions," as required by the Paris agreement. Poland and Hungary argue that this means none of the four countries can individually report its views. This could block any investigation of cease-fire violations.

The sources said Michel Gauvin of Canada, acting as this month's chairman, was determined to give all four countries in the organization time to consult with their own governments before resuming attempts to resolve the dispute.

THE GOSSIP COLUMN

ROBIN ADAMS SLOAN

Thyssen: No Onassis money

Saluki: All this and Allah too

Ellsberg: May sue Nixon

Q: You said that Pat Loud of "American Family" was writing a book. What's her husband Bill doing? Any chance that marriage will be patched up? — P.V., Philadelphia.

A: Bill simply relishes being a celebrity. He keeps his telephone number listed in the phone book and loves it when people recognize him in bars as a result of the TV series. Loud doesn't want to move back with his family and is extraordinarily candid in saying that he loves his five children, but finds the experience of living with all of them far too "nerve shattering."

Q: What can you tell me about the dog called the saluki? — N.M., Boston, Mass.

A: The saluki was the royal dog of ancient Egypt, but the breed was not recognized by the American Kenel Club until 1927. Today there are 600 members in the American Saluki Club, though the fleet-footed dogs are still relatively rare. Salukis have long legs, sleek coats, and slightly resemble the greyhound and Afghan. The saluki is the one dog to overcome the devout Muslim's thesis that dogs are "unclean." This is because the breed is not considered a mere dog but a hunting companion.

Q: Well, did the Onassis boy leave money to his baroness companion, or didn't he? — B.H., New York, N.Y.

A: The Baroness Fiona Thyssen did not receive any legacy from Alexander, either in his will or from insurance as rumored. Alexander's approximately $100 million share in the family trust reverts to the family. The baroness couldn't care less about that. It's a cinch she wasn't interested in the young Onassis for his money. She has enough money in her own right.

Q: Where is Daniel Ellsberg now and what are his plans? — J.V., Portland, Ore.

A: Ellsberg has been in Manhattan recently and has been telling friends off the record that he's thinking of suing President Nixon for invasion of privacy.

Q: I got interested in chess when Bobby Fischer played Boris Spassky and I wonder whether there's anyone coming up who will give Fischer real competition? — I.G., Jacksonville, Fla.

A: British chess fans are betting that 18-year-old Tony Miles, a Birmingham math student, will be the game's next wunderkind. Miles defeated the British champion recently, thus achieving the first leg for an international chess master title. Meantime in Russia, Mikhail Tal, the 37-year-old Latvian who won the world championship in 1960, is enjoying a glittering comeback. In the last seven months he's not only beaten Spassky but won all the 82 games he played.

QUESTION YOU DIDN'T ASK: What famous political love affair and marriage is in serious trouble? She seems to be trying to find solace on the martini route much to the dismay of friends who love her very much. He is back to his old routine of ever changing girl friends.

Area Architect Heads Survey Team

RHINEBECK
Rhinebeck architect Richard Crowley has been named project supervisor for a U.S. Government survey of mansions along the Hudson River.

The architects and historians for the survey were sworn in June 4 by the staff of the Roosevelt-Vanderbilt National Historic Site at Hyde Park.

Besides Crowley the team includes: Kevin Harrington, Cornell University, historian; Thomas Hauck, Ohio State University, architect; Mary Lou Oehrlein, Iowa State University, student assistant architect; Joseph Bilallo, Washington University, student assistant architect; and Gerald Karr, University of Colorado student assistant architect, all under the direction of John Poppeliers chief, Historic American Buildings Survey.

The Historic American Buildings Survey (HABS) of the Office of Archeology and Historic Preservation is a part of the National Park Service, U.S. Department of the Interior.

Co-sponsoring the project are the Dutchess County Landmarks Association (through a grant from the New York State Council on the Arts), the New York State Board of Historic Preservation with the Taconic State Park Commission and the Rhinebeck Historical Society.

The area selected for research, measuring and recording extends from Cler-mont south 15 miles to Staatsburg, including all the sites occupied by Chancellor Robert R. Livingston, his nine brothers.

These include Clermont, RRL's House, Montgomery Place, Masrana, Rokeby, the Beekman house, Grasmere, Wildercliff, Linwood, and Staatsburg.

One of the particular aspects that distinguishes the area is the consistent quality of man-made landscaping laid out from the late 18th century throughout the 19th century, reaching its peak of critical acclaim in the writings of Andrew Jackson Downing.

To record this, detailed serial photogrammetry is planned, accompanied by aerial infra-red photography to reveal the exact layouts of old foundations and formal gardens.

The survey will begin this summer with several buildings selected for their historical and architectural importance and condition. Further work in succeeding summers is expected to complete the project.

Crowley noted that "we are impressed by the artifacts of previous generations, and that research of actual facts in bricks and mortar could rewrite history."

He said there is evidence already that one of the Livingston husbands might be a "quantitative rival to that other amateur architect, Thomas Jefferson."

Dutchess Study Approved

POUGHKEEPSIE
The Dutchess County Board of Representatives has approved a resolution introduced by Madison Sipperley Jr. of Red Hook and Majority Leader Earl Bruno to establish a special Citizens' Committee to study county wide services improvement.

The committee will be chaired by Kenneth Toole, deputy planning commissioner, with special assistance from Arthur Weintraub, senior vice-president, Mid-Hudson Pattern for Progress.

Purpose of the committee is to review inter-municipal cooperation among smaller villages and towns with the county government.

Sipperley and Bruno expressed their feelings that the county can bolster local service capabilities of towns, villages, and cities.

The committee consists of the following citizens: Douglas Wicks, attorney, 60 West Market Street, Red Hook; Leslie Rollins, Cooperative Extension, South Road, Millbrook; Richard Mitchell, Poughkeepsie; Hon. Sarah Taylor, mayor, Village of Fishkill; Hon. George Cunningham, supervisor, Pawling; William Manfredi Jr., Poughkeepsie; James Wohlbach, Wappingers Falls; Arthur Chiusano, Beacon.

Some matters thought worth considering by the sponsors of the resolution, at a special board meeting, include state level legislative reform changes in the grant-in-aid system, improved state aid and mandate procedures, and greater use of the "carrot and stick" approach.

And at the county level a strengthening, rather than curtailment, of county powers was advocated. Sponsors said there is a need for greater use of area-wide governmental structures and intermunicipal cooperation for more effective management of local affairs.

Sipperley and Bruno asked that the counties be relieved of the fiscal burden endured in social services through "complete takeover of the funding responsibility for such services by the federal government."

The committee is expected to conduct its study over a period of one year, with quarterly reports to the Board of Representatives. Members of the committee will be working with town and village officials, and County Executive William Bartles has expressed his willingness to cooperate in the venture, said sponsors.

Action Delayed In Code Case

NEW YORK (UPI) — A federal appeals court delayed action Tuesday on a challenge to the U.S. Military Academy's cadet honor code that was filed by a cadet who was dismissed for allegedly breaking the code.

The cadet, Albert E. Andrews III, 22, of Petersburg, Va., was dismissed for lying to the West Point student honor committee about a carousing incident last Feb. 4.

He was arrested by military policemen for driving an unauthorized vehicle on the academy grounds while he was on leave. Andrews was charged with having alcoholic beverages in the car and of being "improperly dressed—in cut-off blue jeans."

At a student honor code hearing, Andrews said he was on the academy grounds only about 15 minutes on the day he was arrested. The MPs said they detained him for about two hours.

For allegedly lying about the details of his arrest and thereby violating the cadet honor code—"a cadet does not lie, cheat or steal, nor tolerate those who do"—the academy dismissed him.

Andrews appealed the ruling to the federal courts on grounds his constitutional right to due process was violated by the 12-member honor code committee.

A three-judge federal court of appeals stayed the case Tuesday, sending it to a lower court for a trial at an unspecified date. Until then, the court ordered, Andrews will continue on leave as a cadet instead of receiving his engineering degree and his commission as a second lieutenant.

Another group of five cadets filed suit late last month in federal district court challenging the constitutionality of the cadet honor code.

The cadets, accused of cheating on a physics exam, said the honor code "was 'unconstitutionally vague' because it does not specify what behavior is prohibited."

They also charged that they were denied due process because they were not permitted to consult a lawyer, not

County Trial Is Underway

The homicide trial of Verdene Shanklin, 48, of Ellenville, who allegedly stabbed her common law husband, Arthur Shanklin, to death in their 151 Center Street apartment last Jan. 4 began in Ulster County Court Tuesday with County Judge Raymond J. Mino presiding.

A jury was drawn in the morning and testimony began but trial was interrupted later in the day for a hearing. Among witnesses taking the stand were an elderly man known as Buffalo Nickel of Ellenville and Mrs. Marie Van Leuven.

After the alleged afternoon incident last January, Mrs. Shanklin reportedly left the apartment and walked around Ellenville, finally appearing at Village Police Headquarters about 6 p.m.

Police then conducted what they described as a frustrating search for the murder weapon. Shanklin, who was found on a bed in the apartment, was pronounced dead at the scene. He reportedly had been stabbed twice.

Assistant District Attorney James Melbert is representing The People and Mrs. Shanklin is being represented by Frank Spada.

Skylab Aloft

American perseverance and ingenuity overcame the series of obstacles that beset the massive space station and the crew of Skylab I until they finally were aboard. It was one of the Navy's most difficult boardings, on the sea or in the air, and the fact that all three crewmen were Navymen probably helped.

First, there was the problem of entering the massive space station, destined to be their home for as much of the 28-day mission as their remaining power and other facilities will permit. They made sure the cabin was free of noxious gases and floating debris and that the heat was bearable. They secured themselves from the sun's rays with an umbrella-like sunshade. Exhausted, they spent their first night in the Apollo spacecraft that had taken them alongside the space station. They had won a battle that was fought with courage and persistence and almost bare hands.

The impact of the first day's cliff-hanging difficulties is being assessed at Mission Control. Depending on the debriefing of the Skylab I crew on their return, and a study of the pictures they take, the equipment of later crews will be determined.

A second Skylab crew is due to fly to the laboratory in space in August for a planned 56-day visit. By that time, the lessons of the first Skylab flight will be utilized to make sure that they will not occur again.

Supply and Demand

The American housewife is still angry about meat prices, but less rebellious. Price ceilings are serving their objective of keeping meat prices from climbing further, but buyers still say they are too high, and they are either learning to live with the prices or using short cuts to reduce their purchases of meat.

There is an optimistic wind coming from the corn belt. Farmers delayed by the wettest spring in memory are trying to make up for lost time by planting corn and soybeans late in the night, now that the floods are abated and the warm winds are drying up the land. Livestock feed grain crops will be big enough, the Agricultural Department believes, to produce enough animals to avoid shortages and hold prices at or just below the ceiling set by the Nixon Administration.

Two weeks after the flood waters subsided, from 75 to 90 per cent of the corn in Iowa was in the ground by the first of June, all was in that will be planted this year. Thousands of acres of soybean fields in the South on the flooded Mississippi and its tributaries were ruined beyond salvage.

CHANGING WORLD — Back from Moscow for the official opening of a branch office, David Rockefeller, chairman of the Chase Manhattan Bank, was so cordially received that he said, "The world must be changing rapidly." Alluding to Soviet caricatures of big business, he said, "I cannot think that Soviet officials do not take their own propaganda too seriously."

LIKE HIS MENTOR—Tommie Agee, 30, a Houston outfielder, learned about business from the old Professor Casey Stengel, who managed the New York Mets when Agee was the hero of the 1969 World Series against the Baltimore Orioles. Between seasons, Casey is a banker in California. Agee is one of the organizers of a $3-million bank being founded in his hometown, Jackson Heights, New York.

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — The Watergate cover-up apparently has become the style throughout the Nixon Administration. Government auditors have been encountering "increasing difficulties" in gaining access to records of fraud, waste and mismanagement.

This is the report we get from inside the General Accounting Office, which is the investigative arm of Congress. Under the law, the GAO has a legal right "to examining any books, documents, papers, or records of any . . . department."

Yet obstacles have been raised, in apparent violation of this law, to hamstring GAO investigations. Comptroller General Elmer Staats confirmed to my associate Joseph Spear that his auditors have noticed a "distinct tightening up" of their access to documents.

As Staats put it, government agencies have become "supercautious," thereby causing "tremendous delays" in GAO's investigations. Worst offenders: the State, Defense and Treasury Departments.

State's Agency for International Development, for example, ordered its employees not to disclose any "recommendations or planning data" to the GAO.

Treasury's Internal Revenue Service simply refuses to let the GAO look at its books, although IRS records are made available to other agencies. "As a practical matter," Staats told Spear, "we don't see why they should cooperate with so many others and not cooperate with the GAO."

Even the Corporation for Public Broadcasting, a quasi-governmental agency, has refused to open its files to the auditors. Last fall, the GAO requested some records, but CPB responded by circulating a confidential memo to its officers instructing them not to cooperate. They were told to say that the inquiries were "beyond the scope" of GAO's authority and that they, therefore, "declined to pursue the matter."

President Nixon himself set the pattern by invoking executive privilege to block the GAO from examining "internal working documents" for military assistance and foreign aid spending.

What the President once promised would be an "open" Administration has become a cover-up Administration.

FOOTNOTE: Staats feels the situation is so serious that he is asking Congress for authority to take uncooperative agencies to court. If any agency should still refuse to cooperate, the GAO wants the legal right to cut off their funds.

MILK PRICES: In the name of "consumer protection," the Senate Agriculture Committee has passed legislation that would raise milk prices and fatten the bank accounts of the big milk cooperatives.

Even more shocking, the language was drafted by two milk co-ops that have been accused by the Justice Department of antitrust and coercion charges.

The measure would give Associated Milk Producers, Inc., and Dairymen, Inc., together with their allies throughout America, the power to raise milk prices without serious government hindrance. It would also strike heavily at the nation's independent dairy farmers.

The two big co-ops have been charged in federal civil antitrust suits with "coercion," "threats" and attempted boycotts of other milk producers. Yet they were able to get their friends in the Senate to slip the anticonsumer milk provision into the omnibus farm bill ironically entitled "Agricultural and Consumer Protection Act of 1973."

The sheer size of the bill made it easy for the two co-ops to weave language, worth millions to the milk industry, into the bill. The 110 witnesses in 14 days of hearings so bewildered some senators that they left the final meeting not knowing exactly what they had voted for.

Dairy contributions of more than $50,000 to seven committee members may also have helped mute senatorial objections.

They are Sens. Richard Clark, D-Iowa, $7,500; Carl Curtis, R-Neb., $2,000; Robert Dole, R-Kans., $2,500; James Eastland, D-Miss., $15,000; Jesse Helms, R-N.C., $1,000; Walter Huddleston, D-Ky., $18,000; Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., $4,100.

Consumer-minded senators, who discovered the multimillion-dollar bonanza after it had already been approved by the committee, hope to remove it from the final bill on the Senate floor. Otherwise, they fear it not only would boost milk prices but would kill any chance that the antitrust suits can be prosecuted.

FOOTNOTE: Milk importers have complained that the dairy lobby has so limited dairy imports that prices will go up anyway.

Inside Report

NATO in Peril

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

BRUSSELS — The dangers facing the 24-year-old NATO military alliance can be seen in the failure so far of a quiet quest by Gen. Andre J. Goodpaster, U.S. commander-in-chief for Europe, for monetary help to keep American troops in Europe.

Goodpaster, NATO supreme commander, is asking European members of NATO for much more help in easing the chronic U.S. balance-of-payments deficit, over $2 billion a year of which results from NATO costs. To avoid the odium of 300,000 American troops in Europe labelled as mercenaries, the U.S. seeks no direct budgetary aid but wants balance-of-payments relief — perhaps by transferring dollar holdings of Western European governments to non-military programs in place of U.S. aid.

Such transfers might deflate isolationists in the U.S. Senate, now gaining strength against a Watergate-weakened President Nixon for unilateral U.S. troop withdrawals. They would then be deprived of their potent monetary argument. Thus, it is of great concern that the response to Goodpaster has been so negative.

As we reported from Bonn, West European leaders are frantic at the thought of a major U.S. withdrawal. Yet, they do nothing to prevent it. Only West Germany now contributes economically to U.S. troops in Europe. The others want no part of it, and German officials say a greater burden for them is politically impossible.

The result: deepening apprehension at NATO's sprawling headquarters here. Although the ambassadors to NATO contend the alliance is impervious after contributing to a generation of unprecedented European peace, they are disturbed by the contrast between the present military exertions of West and East.

The Soviet Union, while talking détente, is methodically continuing its qualitative build-up of aircraft and armor in Central Europe. Some 1,500 new Soviet tanks (T-62s plus improved versions that some call the T-63) have been brought into Central Europe to replace the T-54s, which are not being returned to Russia but kept on standby status. Particularly heavy tank concentrations have poured into Hungary, which Moscow contends is not in Central Europe and therefore not subject to the Vienna negotiations on mutual troop reductions.

No Western diplomat concludes from this that the Soviets plan to assault Western Europe. But some diplomats do believe the Kremlin's armaments programs are intended to overawe the NATO nations and, combined with a massive U.S. withdrawal, dominate them politically.

In response, the smaller NATO partners seem tired of military preparedness. Denmark is reducing its troop commitment. Belgium wants to cut the length of service for conscripts. Canada's troop contribution, though very high in quality, is very small.

One astute Western diplomat here observes that the European NATO nations were fielding over 400 divisions in 1939 on the eve of World War II but can barely scrape up 40 divisions today. "Western Europe is a monster," he explains. "It has a wonderful stomach and digestive apparatus but no muscle, no arms and no legs. It is totally oriented to consumption."

Nor have the European military establishments shown much interest in U.S. attempts to save billions of dollars by standardizing equipment (as the Warsaw Pact nations have done). "I would measure our progress in millimeters," a senior U.S. official told us.

Moreover, high-ranking European officers do not really accept the NATO doctrine of "flexible response" — that is, potentially responding to Soviet attack by either conventional or nuclear means. They believe only a nuclear deterrent is credible, meaning that U.S. troops must be present as the trip-wire for the U.S. nuclear arsenal. That thinking puts considerably less premium on the Europeans keeping up their troop commitments.

On top of all this, Europe has felt neglected by the Nixon administration. Accordingly, NATO diplomats welcomed both the assignment of White House counselor Donald Rumsfeld to fill the U.S. ambassadorship to NATO, virtually empty the last two years, and Dr. Henry Kissinger's call for a "New Atlantic Charter."

But Kissinger's speech, irritating Europeans by linking trade, monetary and military matters, scarcely solved NATO's deepening problems. More important, it was drowned out — even in Brussels — by the Watergate clamor. Here as elsewhere, Mr. Nixon cannot fully confront crucial questions while he is trying to save his very presidency.

A Family Tree and Some Birds

The danger of looking up the family tree, I found, is the ill-mannered birds in the top branches. An honest man could lose an eye. At times, certain heraldic quacks have offered to prove for a fee that I am descended from kings and princes. For a little extra, I could get an authentic coat of arms, a bunch of bums rampant in a saloon.

I asked my old man about it one day when he was in a good mood. He had just swindled my mother out of the house money by tossing her double or nothing with a two-headed nickel. "You," quoth my sainted father, "are a direct descendant of Adam and Eve."

"Well," I said brightly, "that makes me an 896th cousin once removed of Moses, but I'd like to know something about the Bishop and Tier families." "If you can spell them," he said sharply, "you know enough."

It seemed remarkable to me that I could trace my dog's lineage back twelve generations, but couldn't track my own beyond two. My mother, Jenny Tier, said the Bishops were all day laborers who left County Wexford, Ireland, on some strange vehicle called a rail. "Couldn't write their own names," she said.

My father said that one of the Tiers was a numbers runner, and he would say no more about it. At this my mother flounced her apron and said the Tiers were first cousins to the rich Astors of New York, but were not speaking to the Astors these days because, in 1715 or thereabouts, the Astors robbed the Tiers of all the land between the Battery and Wall Street in New York.

Pop said that his grandfather was an Irishman who served as a Colour Sergeant in the English army in the Crimean War. "May he never have a day's luck, God forgive me," I went to Ireland to learn more fascinating details about my forebears.

I have never see such lush greenness in the land and the people. Talking must be a mortal sin because nobody said a word. They puffed pipes; worked the farms; built stone walls and walked three miles to a tavern for exercise. Above Ennescorthy there was a country lane leading to Upper Scooby and there I found the family farm.

The Bishop who owned it wore a peaked cap and had twine around the bottom of his corduroy pants. He also had something heavy sticking to his shoes. He lived in a white-washed house which adjoined a barn, or vice versa. The month was May, but it was cold enough to freeze the staff off the statue of the cardinal.

Mr. Bishop was a shade this side of cordial. "So," he said, "ye're the lieutenant of police, are ye?" No, I said. That was my father. I was a writer. "A what?" A writer (a blunder on my part). And what," he said, showing yesterday's tea toward the front burner. "do ye write?" "Dirty books," I said. "but I'm interested in you. Where did our family come from?" He pointed to the earthen floor. "Right here," he said. Personally, he was 74 years old and single. The family, it seems, had a lot of sons, all of whom worked a beet farm and were told that girls were an occasion of sin.

This, in turn, led to a mass migration to the U.S., Australia, and Canada. It was the girls who left. The tea bubbled black in the old leaves and he poured. Then he whacked a thick slice of homemade bread and pushed it toward me. That and an old newspaper bunched up and tossed into a fireplace constituted the hospitality of the house.

When I left, he looked relieved. He said he had me pegged for somebody who either wanted something, or was going to ask him to sign a paper. He was a big man and when he laughed he showed a couple of strong-looking brown teeth in front. As far as ancestry was concerned, he knew his father's name was John Bishop and his mother was a lass from Lower Scooby. She died of "asthma or the consumption," he wasn't sure.

His father knew when any member of the family was going to die because he awakened at dawn to see the image on his bedroom wall. I would also guess that there were a few dead soldiers under the bed.

He shook hands half embarrassed, laughing at nothing. I swore off looking back to any kinship with King Brian Boru. "Well," he said, "a man who is a lieutenant made good in the new country. You look the part, Jim. And if you ever have a few spare shillin', write home."

I promised. If I could only find the numbers runner on the other side of the family, I'd have the first plateau all worked out. . .

Skylab Trio Plan Inside Spacewalk Rehearsal

HOUSTON (UPI) — Skylab's astro-repairmen set aside three hours today for an inside rehearsal of a tricky spacewalk Thursday to fix a stuck solar generator and end the orbital lab's costly power crisis.

Charles "Pete" Conrad, Joseph P. Kerwin and Paul J. Weitz assembled an assortment of 33 tools, ropes and other space station odds and ends required to carry out the first spacewalk along the damaged side of a satellite.

They planned to spend the entire morning rigging a 25-foot handrail and practicing the repair operation inside the barn-like forward work area of the world's largest spaceship. Engineers scheduled 16 minutes of the exercise on live television to help the pilots follow intricate techniques radioed to them Tuesday.

The spacewalk is needed to save Skylab from an electrical power system that appears to be deteriorating. Before the pilots went to sleep, mission control told them one of the station's 16 remaining good battery circuits seemed to be in trouble. Two already have failed.

"We'll be keeping our eye on it," said communicator Henry Hartsfield.

Today's rehearsal was the first time astronauts were able to practice a spacewalk in a real weightless environment where handholds and other restraints are essential to success. The inside drill was seen as a major aid to the fix-it procedure, which is burdened with more than the normal spacewalking risks.

"After you get a look at the use of this stuff, we would like your evaluation on it," said backup commander Russell "Rusty" Schweickart Tuesday night. He spent the past week working on the procedures under water in Huntsville, Ala.

"If there's any reason that you feel you'd like to have longer time—like running on Friday or something—just let us know. That's within the scheme of things."

The plan is for Conrad and Kerwin to open Skylab's hatch at 11:37 a.m. EDT Thursday. If all goes well, they should have the station's jammed solar electric generating wing cut free and open to sunlight in an hour and a half. It should give Skylab enough power for two 56-day missions later this year.

Schweickart told the astronauts flight planners also would like them to open a bulky telescope door, change a film magazine in a solar camera, inspect Skylab's makeshift sunshade and take a look at the overheating Apollo control rocket assembly.

Conrad, who has logged more spaceflight time than anyone, said he was concerned about the extra chores added to the repair job, and the extra equipment required for the television inspection of the sunshade and the Apollo command ship they will fly home.

"It sounds to me like you're getting Fibber McGee and Molly's closet in there," he said. "I'll have to think about it."

One of Conrad's concerns earlier Tuesday was alleviated after he spoke privately by radio with top project officials. He had just been told he had irregular heart action during an exercise test in the overheated cabin May 29, and he feared doctors were overly concerned. They said they were not.

But physicians had Conrad repeat the exercise test and Dr. Royce Hawkins, deputy chief of life sciences, reported later that Conrad had no further trouble. He also said Kerwin and Weitz were in top shape.

Cahill Loses in New Jersey Primary

TRENTON, N.J. (UPI) — Rep. Charles W. Sandman Jr. defeated Gov. William T. Cahill in Tuesday's Republican primary, and called his solid victory the nation's first proof that the voters are concerned about Watergate-type scandals.

A mushrooming scandal over the funding of Cahill's 1969 campaign—won largely on the promise that he would sweep out corruption that tainted the administration of his Democratic predecessor—denied a New Jersey governor a renomination for the first time in state history.

With 4,306 of the state's 5,372 districts reporting, Sandman had 159,120 votes, or 59 per cent, to Cahill's 110,543.

In the November general election, Sandman will meet Brendan T. Byrne, a former judge who defeated a woman and three other candidates in Democratic balloting.

Sandman, a four-term congressman with a conservative voting record who lost to Cahill in the 1969 primary, said corruption in government "has got to be eradicated."

"The people are expecting this," Sandman said in his victory statement. "This is the first major test in the country, and this, I believe, is the reason for the outcome being as overwhelming as it is, and based upon all of this the people have asked for reform. They're demanding changes, for whatever happened as a result of bad judgment shall never happen again."

He did not specifically mention Watergate, but it was clear he was referring to that and the state scandals.

Cahill told his supporters,

"This may seem strange to a lot of people. But tonight I can stand with my head high, with my eyes straight ahead, because as I go out, I have gone out fighting."

During the campaign, Cahill maintained that he "had no personal knowledge" of the activities that have led to 13 federal and state indictments against his appointees, associates and contributors.

Byrne captured half the Democratic vote, Mrs. Ann

Governors Asked To Condemn Phase III

STATELINE, Nev. (UPI) — Obviously willing to trade defeat today for campaign fodder later, Democrats asked the National Governors Conference to condemn President Nixon's Phase III economic plan and the heart of his new federalism program.

Resolutions demanding that Nixon restore strict wage, price and rent controls and rejecting his revenue sharing proposals were among a stack of propositions to be disposed of by the governors at the closing session of their 65th national conference.

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew showed up at the meeting Tuesday but restricted his activities to socializing and private chats with governors and tennis on the grounds of the luxury Lake Tahoe gambling resort where the conference was being held.

The governors were expected to adopt a lengthy policy statement proposing means to deal with the energy crisis.

But the Democratic statements on revenue sharing and the economy, like all resolutions before the conference, required three-fourths majorities for adoption. With the Democrats holding 31 statehouses and the Republicans 19, the GOP had the votes to kill any measure they regarded as designed to politically embarrass their President and party.

The Democrats would prefer to have the conference adopt their resolutions, but they could see political gain however the vote went. By submitting the measures, they were placing their views before a national forum.

In losing, they forced the Republicans to accept the Democratic choice of political battlegrounds for the 1974 and 1976 campaigns.

Agnew acknowledged revenue sharing was one of the topics he would discuss privately with the governors.

UN Reviewing Crisis in Mideast

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — The Security Council assembled today for the start of a general review of the Middle East crisis with Egypt expected to lead off by calling for new concerted efforts to restore peace to the area.

But diplomatic sources said Egypt would repeat that peace cannot come at the cost of Arab territorial concessions to Israel. In the past, however, Foreign Minister Mohamed Hassan el-Zayyat was the scheduled first speaker in the review with Israel the second speaker.

Diplomatic sources said the Egyptians have not disclosed whether they would advance concrete proposals for a settlement and were unlikely to do so in the statement by El-Zayyat, present setup, that is, with its territorial concessions to Israel. Under that resolution, the territory now occupied by Israeli troops was not negotiable in a future peace agreement.

Guilty Plea Is Entered

MARLBORO
A 28-year-old fourth grade teacher at the Marlboro Central School, arrested May 23 for the sexual abuse of several of her students, entered a guilty plea to that charge Tuesday night before Town of Esopus Justice Robert Jordan.

Phyllis J. McAteer of Lyons Lane, Marlboro was given a conditional discharge on a one-year jail sentence, with strict probation requirements and probation supervision for the next three years.

Police said the charge of second degree sexual abuse referred to acts the woman committed with children under 14 years of age during a two-year period prior to her arrest.

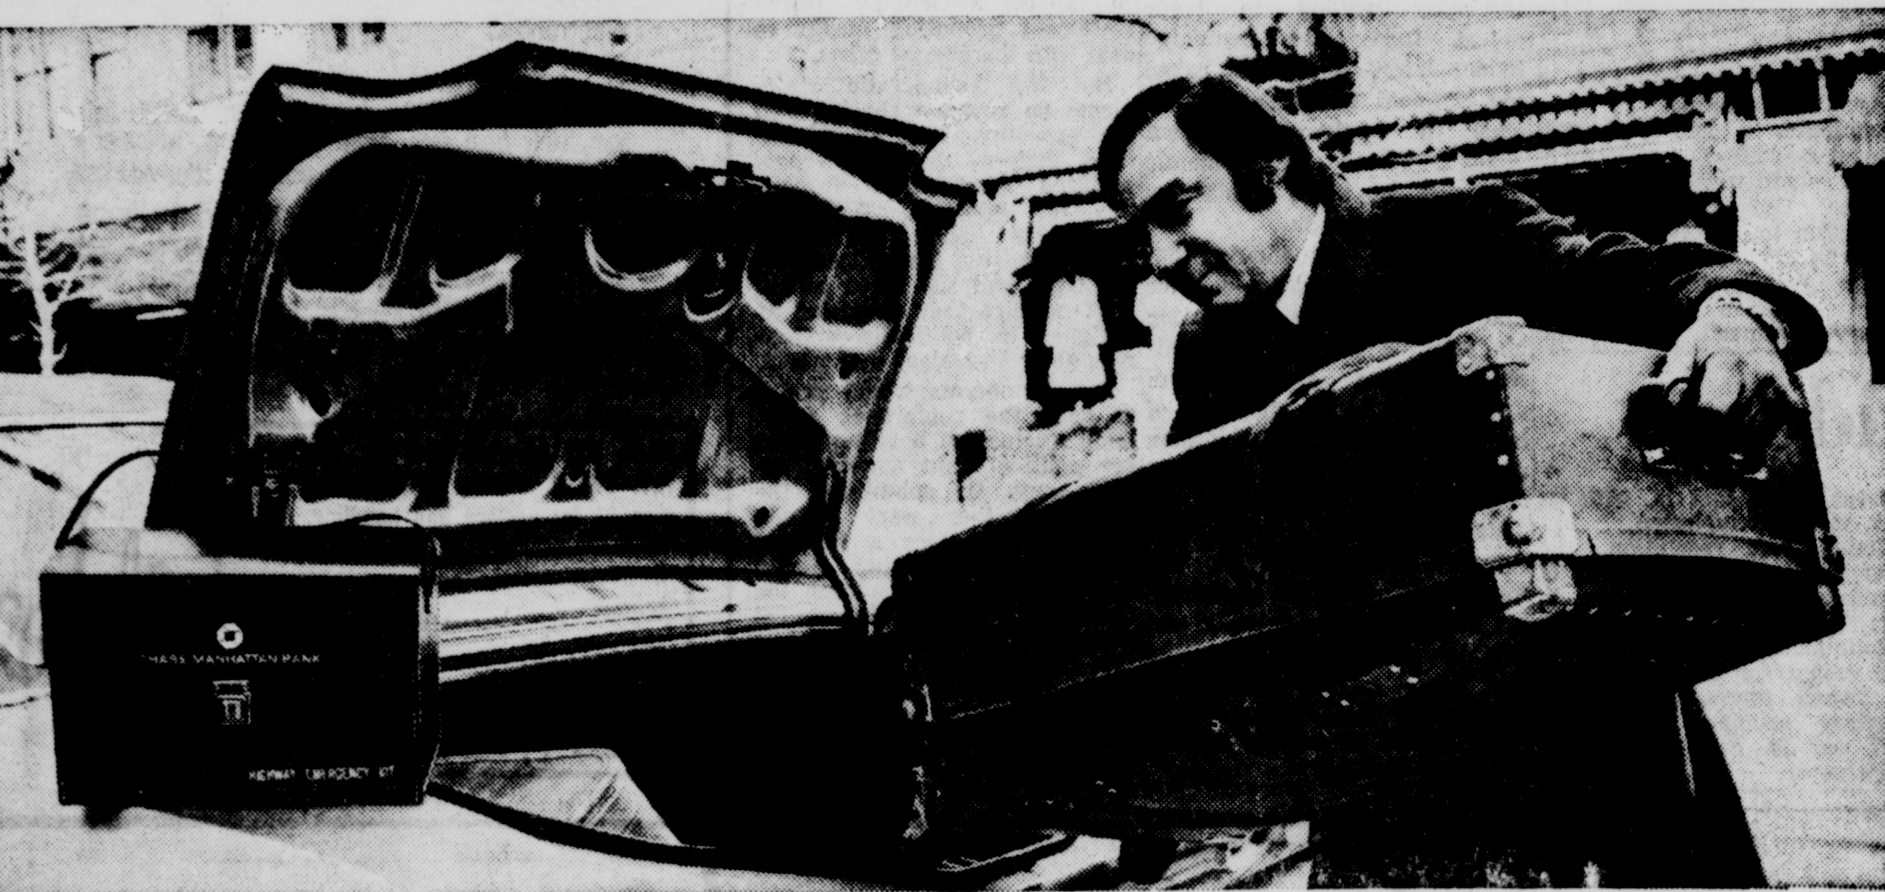

Mrs. McAteer, who has since reportedly resigned her position with the school district, was accused of sexually abusing several of her fourth grade students at locations off the school property. Police said that she made initial contact with the children in her classroom.

The woman was arrested May 23 by State Police BCI Investigator J. A. Fitzgerald, who directed the police investigation into the case. The woman was originally arraigned before Jordan, and released pending required tests and further court proceedings.

Police delayed announcement of the woman's arrest pending notification of the parents of the children involved, and completion of the investigation.

DID YOU HEAR THE ONE ABOUT THE TRAVELING SALESMAN WHO GOT A FREE HIGHWAY EMERGENCY KIT WITH HIS NEW CAR LOAN?

"That's a very beautiful emergency kit," said the traveling salesman; "it certainly would be a handsome addition to the new car I'm planning to buy."

"Well," replied the Chase Manhattan loan officer, "anyone who takes out a new car loan from Chase between May 1st and June 30th gets one of these kits free."

The traveling salesman did not want to appear too anxious in front of the banker. "Is it practical?" he asked.

The banker smiled, opened the luggage-like carrying case and began describing the contents.

"An aerosol fire extinguisher, good for all types of small fires, even electrical, oil or grease.

"An aerosol tire inflator, with a latex sealer that inflates and seals flat tires in less than a minute.

"An emergency blinker with a large suction cup base that you can position on your car top or the roadside. It's visible for miles.

"A high-intensity spotlight with a 12-foot cord that plugs into your cigarette lighter.

"Eight-foot booster cables. Six-foot gas siphon pump. A first-aid kit complete with a 25-page first-aid book."

The salesman was amazed. "And you're giving this away? Free? Why it must be worth at least $19.95 retail!"

"Exactly," answered the banker. "You have a good eye for value. Were you ever a banker?"

"No," said the salesman, "I work for a living."

The banker did not laugh. Oh, he was friendly enough, but after all!

"There's only one problem," said the salesman. "I may not be able to pick out the car I want before June 30th."

So the banker told him that if he signed up now, Chase would reserve his car loan for 100 days at no charge. Not only would he get his free highway emergency kit as soon as the loan was approved, but he'd have plenty of time to shop around for a good deal on a new car. So the salesman signed, and left the bank convinced that this was the best car loan deal he had ever experienced.

If you're a traveling salesman, doctor, painter or anybody looking for a practical, worthwhile free gift with your car loan, we hope this particular traveling salesman story will make you smile—all the way to our bank.

Sugar Beet Refinery ... Future Is Uncertain

MONTEZUMA, N.Y. (AP) — as the Magnum Northern Sugar Sprawled on a lonely plain in Corp. In reality, it is an ornate central New York countryside phoned ward of Cayuga County, is a multi-million dollar monument to failure—a refinery that names, the refinery was conceived a decade ago as a partial solution to the cutoff of sugar supplies that followed the identifies the complex of blue Castro regime's takeover of and silver buildings and tanks Cuba. The refinery ceased operation after three years, but numerous tax liens and other legal entanglements continue to grow.

With its failure under two managements also came the end of a short-lived cultivation of sugar beets in New York's lush Finger Lakes region and indebtedness for more than 200 growers, who are out $1.5 million still due from their 1969 crop.

Yet, a glimmer of hope for the industry's revival remains in the minds of some. Cayuga County seized the 350-acre complex April 16 to recover $602,195 in back taxes, penalties and interest that have accumulated since 1970.

The next day, New Jersey financier Fred H. Vahlsing Jr., last owner of the plant, went before the county legislature in Auburn to plead for a two-month extension to try to pay the taxes he owed the county and the Port Byron Central School District. He was turned down.

While pondering how to dispose of the complex, county officials have assigned a caretaker to the deserted property, and the sheriff's patrol makes spot checks daily.

Officials suggest the refinery might make a brewery with conversion work. They point out the complex's convenient access to a railroad line, the state barge canal and the New York State Thruway as business advantages.

With much fanfare, PepsiCo Inc. of New York City broke ground in 1964 for the refinery at an announced cost of $2 million in private capital. Cost overruns and other construction problems added millions to the start-up expense.

The federal government cooperated by allocating about 30,000 acres to sugar beet production for 1965, but only part of that was harvested and a drought cut the average yield to just over six tons an acre, half what the growers had expected.

Mechanical problems and low production persisted at the plant, and by 1968 PepsiCo was ready to pull out after suffering an $8.8 million operating loss before taxes in two years. Peak employment of 300 during the processing season dwindled.

PepsiCo turned to Vahlsing, who was operating a beet refinery in Easton, Maine, under a subsidiary known as Maine Sugar Industries Inc., which later folded. Vahlsing defaulted on $10 million there in Maine state loans. PepsiCo sold him the Montezuma plant for $15.1 million under a lease purchase arrangement while retaining some adjoining land.

New York growers shipped their 1968 crop to the Maine plant for processing while Vahlsing contracted with a West German firm, BMA, to rebuild the Montezuma complex.

Later, Vahlsing ran into financial problems and the renovation stopped. More than 10,000 acres of New York beets from the 1969 harvest went to Maine, but the growers received only a penny or two on each dollar they expected.

PepsiCo took back the Montezuma lease when Vahlsing was unable to continue his payments. But in December 1971, it sold the deed back to him for a $2.5 million mortgage. Vahlsing also agreed to assume responsibility for liens and other legal claims that reportedly were close to the purchase price.

Meanwhile, the growers abandoned sugar beets for other produce, and some were forced out of farming altogether.

The producers, represented by the Finger Lakes Sugar Beet Growers Association, took Vahlsing to federal court in 1970, seeking to have him declared bankrupt and recover their 1969 crop receipts. The suit failed.

James G. Garlick of MacDougall, growers association president, and Secretary Howard Bateman conceded that the producers probably will never recover those losses.

But, they are hopeful that a viable sugar beet industry could be revived if a strong management took over the Montezuma complex.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices moved higher today with the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials ahead fractionally.

Advancing issues held a 2 to 1 lead over declines.

The New York Stock Exchange volume leader was Dreyfus Corp. unchanged at 64, followed by First National City up 3/4 at 37 1/2.

The market closed up Tuesday after five days of steeply sliding prices. But analysts tempered their remarks on the significance of the rise.

Although the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials closed up 14.90 at 900.81, advancing issues on the Big Board closed only narrowly higher than losers. On the American Stock Exchange, the gainers just edged out losers at the close.

The analysts said Tuesday's upward movement primarily was technical in nature after five days of losses. However, they added it may have been given some impetus by news from Washington which some investors interpreted as meaning the administration would announce new measures against inflation.

Gilman Set As Speaker

POUGHKEEPSIE — Congressman Benjamin A. Gilman will address the annual meeting of the Council of Industry of Southeastern New York on Thursday, June 7, at the Ramada Inn, Newburgh, at which officers and directors of the region-wide industry group for 1973-74 will be installed.

Gilman, who represents Rockland, Orange, and southern Ulster Counties in the House of Representatives, is serving his first term in Washington. He is a member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee as well as its subcommittees on the Middle East and on Foreign Trade, and is a member of the special task force on the energy crisis. He served in the New York State Assembly from 1967 to 1972 and is a native of Poughkeepsie.

CI President Taylor Thompson will preside at the dinner meeting, which will begin at 7:30 p.m. preceded by a reception starting at 6:30.

President Elected

Robert B. Cole was elected president of the Pine Bush Cemetery Association at its recent meeting. Named to the Board of Directors for two years was Bruce Schoonmaker, and for one year, Valentine Panaccione. The newly elected trustees reappointed Mrs. Clara Margaret Booth as secretary-treasurer. Cole and Hasbrouck Decker were appointed to continue a search for suitable land for expansion. The Association also voted to blacktop all cemetery roads and a small parking area, and set the first Thursday in May for the annual meeting.

U. S. Dollar Gains Strength, Gold Price Eases

LONDON (AP) — The U.S. dollar strengthened today after nearly a week's decline to record lows, and the price of gold eased on European bullion markets.

The volume of trading was low, however, as nervousness over future monetary trends persisted.

Dealers said reports from Washington that the Nixon administration was considering further tough measures to halt rising inflation apparently helped the dollar.

The dollar improved both in Tokyo and in Hong Kong as well as in Europe. It closed in Tokyo at 263.90 yen, up half a yen, and at 5.0650 Hong Kong dollars after opening at 5.06.

The price of gold eased in Hong Kong to close at $120.19 an ounce. The price of the metal dropped $3 an ounce to $123 at Tokyo, and at 5.0650 Hong Kong dollars after opening at 5.06.

The British pound eased to $2.5705, a full cent down from times in Zurich to 3.0550 Swiss francs.

In Frankfurt, the dollar rose from Tuesday's 2.59 marks to 2.614 in early trading. The American money jumped 5 1/2 cents in Paris to 4.27 francs, and it was up 1 1/2 cents in London to 4.27.

The dollar trading was described as active in Paris but restricted and nervous in both London and Frankfurt.

As the dollar sank and gold prices climbed Tuesday, money experts said the new international system that was supposed to prevent another monetary crisis might be cracking from the pressure.

The governor of the Bank of France, Olivier Wormser, said the dollar was undervalued and that its recent weakness reflected fears the Watergate scandal has undermined confidence in the Nixon administration's ability to solve economic problems.

The dollar, by getting cheaper in other currencies, has made U.S. goods cheaper and more competitive abroad.

At the same time, dollar buying power abroad is reduced.

New Paltz Properties Show Tax Rise

The latest Town of New Paltz tax rolls, covering 1973 school taxes and 1974 town, county and highway taxes, show an increase of slightly more than $700,000 in the full assessed valuation of taxable properties in the Town and Village of New Paltz.

The figures became available Tuesday at the Town Clerk's offices. The full assessed valuation of taxable lands totals $7,717,830, compared with a $7,107,355 figure last year. The total number of taxable parcels also increased — from 2,712 last year to 2,823.

The full assessed valuation of non-taxable properties (largely consisting of State University College at New Paltz properties, according to assessor Nicholas Badami) increased even more, however, and now totals more than $15 million. That figure was set at $12,617,225 last year.

The equalization rate for the Town of New Paltz has remained at 12 per cent.

The total exempt amount for taxable properties (including partial exemptions for such persons as veterans) also increased slightly from $487,045 last year to $490,225 this year.

The full assessed valuation of properties includes both the assessed valuation of lands and improvements on them.

Figures for the total assessed land valuation on taxable parcels in the town and village show an increase from $1,394,375 last year to $1,633,325 this year.

Much of the nearly $2.5 million jump in full assessed valuation of non-taxable lands appears to be tied up in buildings and other improvements, as the assessed land valuation only increased slightly from $238,125 last year to $264,325 this year in the non-taxable category.

At the same time, dollar buying power abroad is reduced.

The dollar, by getting cheaper in other currencies, has made U.S. goods cheaper and more competitive abroad.

EARLY ARCHITECT'S SKETCH OF MALL

Reade-Owned Mammoth Mall To Be Sold to N.Y. Pair

By DON TREAT

KINGSTON—Mammoth Mall shopping center will soon be purchased by Cross Country Properties Inc. of New York City for approximately $1 million in cash over existing mortgages.

The closing should take place this week, according to Cross Country, and the property will be transferred from the late Walter Reade Jr. to the new owners.

The mall will officially belong to Cross Country Shopping Centers Inc., headed by Michael Lipstein and John P. Warren, both of New York City.

Cross Country has sought the Reade-owned shopping center complex since the former theatre magnate died in a February skiing accident. Reade was in Kingston for groundbreaking ceremonies in April of 1971. The grand opening was held June of 1972.

Attorney for the purchasers, Arnold Tenney also of New York City told the Freeman that Cross Country has had the property under contract since April.

The Mammoth Mall, a fully enclosed, climate controlled shopping center with parking for 1,000 cars, is located at the site of the former 9W Drive-In Theatre in Ulster Avenue Mall.

The Mammoth Mart department store was the first tenant of the shopping center to open.

as opening dates for others had to be moved back. Albany Public Market and Marine Midland Bank soon joined the Mammoth Mart as major tenants, however.

Traffic has been a major headache since the center opened to a monumental jam. While they have no specific ideas on how to alleviate the problem, Cross Country does have it "under consideration."

The new owners have revealed plans to add 20,000 feet of selling space to the existent facility. This would bring the area of total rentable space to over 200,000 feet.

Cross Country indicated that it intends to emphasize the local merchants in expanding. It has named Caledonia National Inc. as exclusive rental agents for the center.

A nationwide shopping center developer, Cross Country presently has several projects in the planning and construction stages. Among its New York projects, are centers in New York City, Kent, Herkimer and East Greenbush.

Although Reade was head of his own theatre chain, the Mammoth Mall is a separate entity from the theaters owned by the Walter Reade Organization. Cross Country's purchase of the shopping center will have no bearing on the Walter Reade movie theaters in this area.

Reade was president.

IBM Pioneer in Inner City Plant

Iannone Receives Graduate Degree

BROOKLYN Alfred J. Iannone, former Saugerties resident, has received his Master of Science degree from Columbia University Graduate School of Business under the Master's Degree Program for Executives. Iannone is the assistant for the general manager of the International Business Machines Corporation's plant in the Bedford Stuyvesant community of Brooklyn.

Iannone's connection with IBM's Brooklyn plant goes back five years when he was the industrial engineer on the development team responsible for the initial plans for the plant. Later he was a key figure in the implementation of those plans. He was appointed manager of plans and facility operation early in 1968. In this position, he was responsible for plant engineering, industrial engineering, procurement and security. In 1970, he was the manager of materials management at Brooklyn. In addition to the above, he was also responsible for production control and materials distribution in this position. He assumed his present position at Brooklyn in November 1972. Iannone joined IBM in 1953 as an apprentice toolmaker and immediately entered the IBM apprentice toolmaking school in Poughkeepsie. Shortly after graduation, his IBM career was interrupted to serve in the U.S. Army. After serving as a critical specialist in the Army, he returned to IBM in his toolmaking discipline. Within a few years, he advanced to the position of manufacturing engineering analyzer and soon after to tool room engineering liaison. Within two years, he was promoted to the position of cost estimator in industrial engineering. After several managerial appointments, Iannone was appointed project industrial engineer, manager of procurement estimating at IBM's plant at Kingston in mid-1966. Iannone holds an AAS degree in business from Ulster County Community College, received in 1968, and was graduated from the Alexander Hamilton Institute of Business in 1961. He has also attended the New York Institute of Technology.

He authored an article, The Procurement Estimator in the fall 1968 edition of Purchasing Magazine. He currently holds membership in the American Society of Manufacturing Engineering.

Iannone resides in Rockville Centre with his wife Pegi, and four children.

Library Board To Elect 9

WOODSTOCK Woodstock Library Board of Trustees will elect nine persons to the 24-member board of directors at a meeting Thursday, June 21 at the library. The nominating committee has submitted the names of the following candidates for six posts of four years each. They include Karen Church, Joshua Koplovitz, Inge Langham, Joan Lawson, Allan Simmons and Karen Vos. Due to three resignations, the nominating committee has also proposed the names of Helen Turnbull, Agnes Wise Jr. and Valerie Martin to fill vacancies. A new service is now available at the Woodstock Library where, for the first time, cassette tape recordings are available for loan to library card carriers. The tapes include everything from Elvis Presley to the Boston Pops. In addition, the library has available a number of new books by local authors. Landscaping and definition of the parking area is now underway at the library.

IT WAS THEIR DAY—Woodstock elementary school teachers enjoy their day of recognition at the recent annual "Teacher Recognition Day" luncheon. The teachers all received a gift at the luncheon, while enjoying the relaxing and congenial atmosphere provided by the Woodstock PTA. Seated in the

Blood Bank Features Group Policy

KINGSTON The Ulster County Blood Bank, a member of the United Way of Ulster County, is emphasizing and promoting its recently announced Group Policy. The Ulster bank is the only blood bank operating in Ulster County which has a participating membership in the American Association of Blood Banks, a national clearing house which transfers credits all over the United States.

The Group Policy is for the immediate benefit of members of the Ulster County Blood Bank who live and/or work in Ulster County. This is the major program operating in Ulster County which makes blood available as it is needed by the local hospitals.

Unemployment Decline Is Continuing

KINGSTON Unemployment in Ulster County continued its sharp seasonal decline in May, according to figures released by the Employment Division of the New York State Labor Department on Pine Grove Avenue.

Labor Department officials noted that 1,388 persons filed for unemployment insurance benefits during the final week in May. The unemployment figures have declined steadily since February.

The figures for the past four months were: February, 2,392; March, 2,103; April, 1,790 and May, 1,388.

In May, 1972, 1,943 persons collected unemployment benefits, so this year's figures are substantially lower than those recorded last year.

The consistent decline in unemployment figures since February is partially reflected in construction workers resuming their employment during warmer months, and greater employment opportunities afforded by tourist and vacation-oriented businesses in Ulster County, which traditionally hire greater numbers of persons during the Spring and Summer months.

The figures quoted by the Department of Labor do not reflect total unemployment in the county, but only those persons who apply for, and are eligible to receive, unemployment benefits.

Jewish Appeal Speakers to Visit City

KINGSTON Daniel Pinkas, an outstanding speaker for the United Jewish Appeal, will visit Kingston Friday, June 8. He will meet privately with some of the leaders of the Kingston Jewish Community and will address a luncheon meeting of UJA volunteer workers at the Holiday Inn at 12 noon.

Pinkas, who is from Israel, was requested by the State of Israel to write the official Israeli Army version of the Six Day War. He has been a close advisor to former Prime Minister David Ben Gurion and other Israeli leaders.

He is presently touring the United States on behalf of UJA, a non-profit tax exempt philanthropic organization dedicated to helping troubled Jewish communities throughout the world. This year a major focus of concern is the Jews of the Soviet Union and their efforts to immigrate to Israel.

Sale of Phantom Jets Causing Congressional Concern

WASHINGTON (AP) — The impending sale of perhaps two dozen F4 Phantom jets to Saudi Arabia appears to be causing concern in Congress as well as in Israel.

Joseph Sisco, the State Department's chief Middle East expert, will appear before a House Foreign Affairs subcommittee Wednesday to explain what the chairman considers "a distinct change in our policy."

U.S. officials insist that up to now all that is settled is that the United States has agreed in principle to sell a limited number of jets to Saudi Arabia and that a similar sale to Kuwait "is under active consideration." However, other sources say the deal is well enough fixed so that Saudi Arabia can expect to begin taking delivery of at least a squadron of the planes late this year.

Simcha Dinitz, the Israeli ambassador to Washington, carried his concern to Sisco on May 24 and May 29, and then to presidential advisor Henry A. Kissinger last Saturday.

Other Israeli sources said they are not panicked by the arms deal and can understand U.S. desires to secure the Persian Gulf and to try to balance Soviet arms shipments to Arab opponents of Saudi Arabia. Kuwait and Iran.

These sources say there is no basic contradiction between U.S. and Israeli positions on stability in the Gulf—only on whether providing the super-sonic F4 fighter-bombers is the appropriate means of obtaining that security.

The sources pointed out that jets in Saudi Arabian hands could strike Israel and return to their bases without refueling. Besides, the Israelis are not persuaded by the U.S. argument that clauses in the sales contracts would guard against transshipment to Egypt and other avid antagonists of Israel.

One Israeli official asked simply: "What would the United States do about it if the jets were transferred?"

Sisco, the assistant secretary of state for Near Eastern and South Asian affairs, will testify before a 13-member subcommittee headed by Rep. Lee Hamilton, D-Ind.

Many Excursion Boats Returning to Japanese River

TOKYO (AP) — Excursion boats with twinkling lights are returning to the River Sumida here. The stench is gone, and pedestrians and cyclists no longer need hold their noses while crossing its bridges.

What's more, Tokyo soon may have a law guaranteeing the "right to sunshine."

On these hopeful notes, Japan, one of the world's most crowded and polluted countries, began its Environment Week.

The observance started with No Car Tuesday, throughout the country. Everyone from government ministers on down was asked to leave their automobiles home and ride public transit or walk to work. Detectors were set up to measure the hoped-for drop in air pollution.

The change in the Sumida River is something of a resurrection.

Nine years ago, the river was pronounced dead after its water turned to black sludge. Since then, the Sumida and other rivers have been partially cleaned through such measures as policing of industrial wastes, increasing the flow of water and erection of treatment plants for 70 per cent of the sewerage. This compares with only five per cent in 1960.

The Tokyo city government is expected to enact the "right to sunshine" law in response to a petition with the names of 211,408 of the capital's 11 million population. It would require anyone constructing a building higher than 24½ feet to obtain the consent of three-fourths of the neighborhood's residents.

In individual cases, the government already has banned construction of structures that would cut off sunshine or light to neighboring buildings.

Despite this news, the city and the nation are still faced with massive problems of pollution of the air, the sea and the earth.

How to cope with some of them will be the theme of lectures during the week by the director-general of the Environment Agency, Vice Premier Takeo Miki, and Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine. Muskie sponsored major clean air legislation in the U.S. Senate.

Rallies will be staged for planting saplings, cleaning river beds and reducing the wasteful use of wrapping paper.

A Hopeful Sign In Cancer Fight

LONDON (UPI) — One of the hopeful signs in the long fight against cancer is that the defense system of the body does not give up without a fight. A good deal of research is now being devoted to strengthening its ability to repel malignant attacks.

In a recent lecture Prof. Nathan Trainin of the Cell Biology Department of the Weismann Institute of Science in Israel said there was a possibility a hormone-like substance secreted by the thymus gland may play an important role in the process of immunization against cancer.

Prof. Trainin told the First International Health Conference in Tel Aviv that there is experimental and clinical evidence indicating a link between the body's immunological defenses and the development of cancer. He said a study carried out over the past five years had shown that the thymus gland secretion regulates the development of white blood cells which, in turn, play a key role in suppressing cancer.

Thus, he said, he had reached the conclusion that when the thymus ceases to operate, either because it is removed or because of its natural shrinking away due to aging, the immune response diminishes and there is a greater probability of tumors developing.

The thymus gland is found in the chest cavity of mammals. Prof. Trainin said that when the thymus is removed from the body of an animal its immunological capacity is reduced. When it is reimplanted the immunological capacity is increased.

The immediate goal of his research is to isolate the thymus hormone responsible for the body's cancer-fighting capacity. Afterwards, he said, it will have to be determined whether this hormone, injected into human beings as it is now being injected into laboratory animals, will increase their immunological defenses against cancer.

Prof. Trainin was born in the Argentine and received his medical degree from Cordova University. He is medical adviser to the Israel Cancer Association.

Transportation Master Plan ...Big State Spending Hike

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The state's new transportation master plan calls for a huge increase in state spending on transportation—and for policy changes that could affect the lifestyles of millions of New Yorkers.

The plan, released by the governor's office on Saturday, projects a capital expenditure on transportation projects in the state over the next 20 years totaling $27 billion.

Because the projection is expressed in terms of 1972 dollars and does not account for inflation, the actual cost would be much higher.

State transportation spending, from bond funds and general revenues, would grow from the current $1.1 billion annually to $4.3 billion by 1992, again in terms of 1972 dollars.

The plan proposes new policies that could alter living patterns, if necessary, to control traffic and ease the burden on transportation systems.

For example, the plan suggests strict supervision of future urban and suburban building, keyed to controlling traffic and other transportation problems.

Access to freeways in urban areas might be controlled, with priority given to buses, and the state might take steps to require car pools and staggered work hours, the plan suggests.

And the plan says the state should give strong consideration to building bicycle paths whenever highways are constructed or improved, as a way of encouraging the "commutable trend" toward human-powered two-wheeling.

The plan, a revised version of a preliminary draft released by the state Department of Transportation last summer, has no legal force but is intended to serve as an outline for transportation policy over the 20-year period.

Although the state would continue to meet a higher percentage of its highway needs than of its mass transit needs under the plan, mass transit spending would increase in absolute terms and rural highway construction would decline.

The $27 billion would buy improvements and some expansion in urban mass transit systems, and would provide for completion of arterial highways in urban areas and for more buses, bus lanes and other mass transit facilities in urban areas across the state.

The money would also provide for completion of the Southern Tier Expressway, high-speed rail passenger service on the Buffalo-Albany-New York City route, development of the Stewart Airport near Newburgh as a freight center and regional airport, expansion of Buffalo International Airport, and improvements to highways.

Besides these capital programs, the plan proposes $410 million annually in direct operating subsidies for mass transit systems—up from current levels of about $210 million.

The projections depend, of course, upon increases in state spending for transportation, and on increases in federal aid as well. They also depend upon federal monies that are now limited to highway construction and making them available for mass transit.

The federal government, which now spends about $2.5 billion on transportation in the state, would have to increase its contribution to $7.97 billion by 1992 to meet the objectives of the plan.

The plan, which was originally scheduled to be released last December, does not contain the specific regional breakdowns which will give more detail about improvements projected in particular cities and counties. The regional plans are to come later.

The Department of Transportation says in the plan that it would take $50 billion—not $27 billion—to meet all the transportation needs and desires of the state over the next 20 years. The higher level of expenditure is simply unattainable, the department says.

Within those fiscal constraints, the plan projects that the state will meet a particular percentage of the need for each particular type of transportation service.

For example, it calls for meeting 100 per cent of the need for interstate highways in both urban and rural areas, but only 57 per cent of the predicted need for mass transit improvements.

Vietnam Era Veterans Conference Set at Marist

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y. (AP)—Vietnam era veterans in the Poughkeepsie area have a unique opportunity to take advantage of GI bill educational benefits by attending a Veterans Educational Conference planned for Sunday, June 10, at Marist College, Donnelly Hall, 2-5 p.m.

Operating on an open house basis, the conference will give former servicemen living in Dutchess, Orange and Ulster Counties the chance to meet with representatives from 13 area educational and training institutions to discuss individual needs they have as veterans.

Oriented to the interests and problems of the veteran, the representatives can discuss concerns such as transferring financial aid and part-time studies, as well as qualifications of individual applicants. State and county Veterans Administration officials will also be available for counseling.

Participating institutions include: Dutchess Community College, Marist, Bard College, Vassar, Poughkeepsie College, Center, Mt. St. Mary College, SUNY at New Paltz, Hudson Valley Opportunities Industrialization Center, (HVOIC), Harlem Valley State Hospital and Hudson River State Hospital, State Schools of Nursing, Ulster Community College, New York State employment service and Board of Cooperative Educational Services (BOCES).

Organized by the Veterans Educational Committee, a group of Vietnam Era veterans from Marist, Dutchess Community College and SUNY at New Paltz, the afternoon conference has been initiated to increase the number of area veterans using GI Bill educational benefits. Citing national statistics, a spokesman for the committee notes that only four per cent of eligible veterans have taken advantage of such benefits.

The local veterans group believes this figure is low because factors such as working schedules, family obligation and general lack of information have made it difficult for individual veterans to explore educational or vocational opportunities in their local area.

Consequently, the Marist conference was developed as a convenience for the veteran; June 10 offers him a chance to examine a wide-range of VA approved schools and vocational centers at one time and place.

A Vietnam era veteran is one who served anytime since January 31, 1955. There is an eight-year eligibility period for educational benefits, with the period beginning at the termination of active duty. Besides providing funds for two and four-year colleges and vocational schools, benefits can assist veterans to finish high school or to attend graduate school. Funds also provide tutoring assistance for certain veterans.

Citing the recent changes in educational benefits for Vietnam era veterans, the committee points out that if single, a veteran may be entitled to $220 a month to complete high school and up to 36 months full-time at the same rate for college and graduate school. If married, with one child, the veteran may receive $298 a month; each additional child would account for $18 more.

The committee urges all interested veterans who cannot attend to send a friend or relative to pick up catalogs and applications. Veterans are welcome to bring their families to the conference.

ANDREW N. G. SAXE

Appointment At Litchfield

LITCHFIELD, CONN. (AP)—A 24-year-old Millbrook resident is the youngest headmaster ever appointed to an independent school at Litchfield Preparatory School.

Andrew Saxe will assume full responsibilities upon the completion of the school year. Educated at the Millbrook School, New College (B.A.) and Columbia (M.A.), Saxe was appointed because of "proven administrative ability and because of his exciting and dynamic educational thinking," stated the governing board of the school.

Upon his appointment Saxe remarked, "Litchfield has and will continue to offer a unique alternative program of study for students who have been thwarted by more standard, competitive educational environments!"

He continued, "In a society where pressure and competition cause stress and dysfunctional inferiority complexes in classroom situations, Litchfield tries to do everything possible to make the learning process a friendly though concerted effort to reach each child."

The Litchfield Preparatory School, founded in 1970, "is a small coed institution dedicated to providing the underachiever with an alternative educational environment where individualized instruction, a flexible curriculum, and a closely-knit dedicated staff work to foster an environment of curiosity, experimentation, and inquiry," according to its publicity.

Saxe has taught at Dalton School in New York City and in Headstart programs in the South. He served in the Peace Corps in 1971 and has had extensive experience in national and local political campaigns.

Summer Courses Set at Vassar

POUGHKEEPSIE (AP)—Poughkeepsie area residents may register for credit-free summer courses at Vassar College in Poughkeepsie on June 11 from 3-6 p.m. and on June 12 from 4-7 p.m. The registration desk will be in the lobby of the Main Building.

The first four-week session will run from June 25 through July 26, with no classes scheduled for the week of July 2.

The second session will run from July 30 through August 23, with registration on July 16-17 in the same place.

Tuition for all courses for each session is $40, a fee which entitles the registrant to the use of the Vassar pool, tennis courts and library.

In addition to offerings in dance, foreign languages, literature, physical education, physical sciences, social sciences and psychology, Vassar will also offer this summer special programs in film and geology.

From June 25 to August 10, an intensive, practical, Super-8 workshop for beginning, as well as experienced, film-makers will be available for a fee of $200.

Equipment will be supplied for this course, which will include instruction in script-writing, direction, cinematography, editing, lighting and sound recording. The last day of registration will be June 19.

In geology, there will be three different offerings with different dates and fees.

On June 30, July 4, 21 and 28, four Saturday field excursions are scheduled in the Hudson Valley for a fee of $50.

Vassar will also offer a five-day field trip to study the geological evolution and history of eastern and central New York State from July 30 to August 3, for a fee of $80.

A one-day narrated boat trip along the Hudson will be available on July 16 for $18.

Additional details on these and other courses are available from Mrs. Joan Sherman, director of special projects, Vassar College.

Board Member Has Decided Not to Run

RED HOOK (AP)—Francis A. Rabbett has decided not to run for reelection after 15 years on the Board of Education of the Red Hook Central School District.

Looking back over his 15 years of service in a press release disclosing his decision not to run, Rabbett said that the board had put many hours into the planning and building of schools, which he said would be sufficient for some time to come. He also noted that he had missed only two meetings during his entire tenure on the board, which he believes to be a record of some sort.

"It has been a privilege and an honor to serve the taxpayers, the children, and a dedicated school board," he said. "I would like to thank the administration, teachers, and all personnel for their cooperation over the years that has made Red Hook Central School District No. 1 the envy of New York State."

ESOPUS BOYS STATER—Patrick O'Brien, Kingston High School junior and son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas O'Brien of Ulster Park, has been selected to spend a week at American Legion Empire Boys State at SUNY Agriculture and Technical College at Morrisville June 24-30. George Tsitsera, Boys State Chairman at Post 1298 American Legion, Esopus congratulates O'Brien on his selection by the Kingston High School faculty.

Dollar Beating To Effect Consumers

NEW YORK (AP) — Consumers who insist on French champagne, Iranian caviar and Irish linen would be well advised to watch the headlines about the weakening dollar.

If, on the other hand, you think domestic champagne is pretty good, you don't have to worry about any immediate impact on you. It also helps if you are not planning on traveling abroad or buying a wedding ring or a foreign sports car.

Economists say the beating the dollar is taking abroad will produce negligible immediate effect for most consumers.

Dr. Milton Friedman, University of Chicago economist, says Americans tend to confuse the beating the dollar takes with the rise in the price of gold. Americans will pay more for gold jewelry and gold fillings from the dentist.

They will pay more to travel abroad, up to 20 per cent more in Germany and 12 to 15 per cent in France. However, American travelers seem to be taking this in stride.

American Express, for example, says its reservations for trips to Europe are slightly over last year.

But the number of foreigners coming to America for a vacation is up dramatically. James W. Thompson, manager of public relations for American Express, says the company has booked 3½ times the number of tourists to the United States this year as last.

"The dollar devaluation has a hell of a lot to do with it," said Thompson, since foreign tourists can get more for their money in the United States than ever before.

Foreign importers raised their prices when the dollar was devalued, but there seem to be no plans for additional hikes because of the current battering the dollar is taking.

Friedman said the lack of meetings by central bankers and of calls for devaluation showed that the system of floating exchange rates was working.

U.S. Fares Well In Price Increase

PARIS (UPI) — Prices reached all-time record levels in most countries last year, but the United States came out best, economists said today.

It had the lowest percentage increase—5.1 per cent of the 24 countries from Western Europe, the Far East and North America which make up the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD).

Inflation will be the main item before OECD ministers when they start a three-day meeting in Paris Wednesday.

According to experts, the 24 OECD member states, which include most European countries along with the United States, Canada, Japan, Australia and New Zealand, all saw inflation accelerate over the past 12 months.

They said consumer prices in Europe rose 8 per cent in the year up to April 1973 and 5.7 per cent in non-European OECD states.

The total annual rate of increase was 6.6 per cent, higher than the previous peak.

The major causes were food price increases, relaxation of price-income controls, cost-push pressures, tightening demand pressures and primary produce price increases.

One expert said: "The problem of restraining inflation is clearly an international one."

The United States was the best performer in the OECD league for the 12 months April 1972 to April 1973 and Iceland was the worst.

Percentage price increase in the United States was 5.1 per cent and in Iceland 16.6 per cent.

Ice Age Survivors Win Modern Day Court Battle

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Prehistoric pupfish, survivors of the Ice Age living in the warm, murky waters of Devil's Hole in Death Valley, won a water rights battle Tuesday against a millionaire rancher.

U.S. District Court Judge Roger Foley ordered Francis Cappaert, the owner of a 12,000-acre desert ranch, to limit the use of eight wells within a 2.5 mile radius of Devil's Hole until the water level in the pupfish natural habitat raises slightly more than four inches.

Cappaert is a multimillionaire from Vicksburg, Miss., who put together Cappaert Enterprises and headed Huerfano Industries. His worth has been estimated at $100 million, and he only recently went into ranching near Death Valley.

The Cappaert ranch is located in Nye County near Devil's Hole. Heavy pumping by the Cappaert wells lowered the water level in Devil's Hole to a point dangerous to survival of the pupfish species, government attorneys argued.

The old, nearly forgotten Mother Lode mines of California and the Bonanza region of Nevada are being stirred back to life by soaring gold prices, which also have nudged mining companies in four states to begin new exploration.

Inquiries about risk-free gold mining loans in California and Nevada "have gone up 50 per cent in the last month or so," said Harold Stager, an official of the Office of Mineral Exploration in Menlo Park, Calif.

"Six months ago there were 10 to 15 a month, now its up to 30," he said Thursday.

The "assistance project" loans, under the U.S. Geological Survey, do not have to be repaid if the gold mining venture fails.

He said two applications from Nevada were pending and five other firms, in Nevada and California, were already doing exploratory work with the federal money.

The official, U.S. government-controlled price on gold is $42.22 an ounce, not enough, he said. "I think a lot of Cortez mines—the states' two biggest commercial producers, Yellowjack claim near Kelsey, Nev. and the Cortez claim near Kelsey, Nev. are both benefiting profitably from the rise in prices and expanding to lower properties."

The Black Hills is the home of the Homestack Gold Co., which owns the Carlin, and since it was $35 an ounce, in Colorado, the Gold Cycle Gold Corp., floated a $6 million loan earlier this year to reopen the Ajax Gold Mine in Cripple Creek.

Next time you see someone polluting, point it out.

It's a burning dump. It's a smoking car. It's litter in our parks.

You know what pollution is.

But not everyone does.

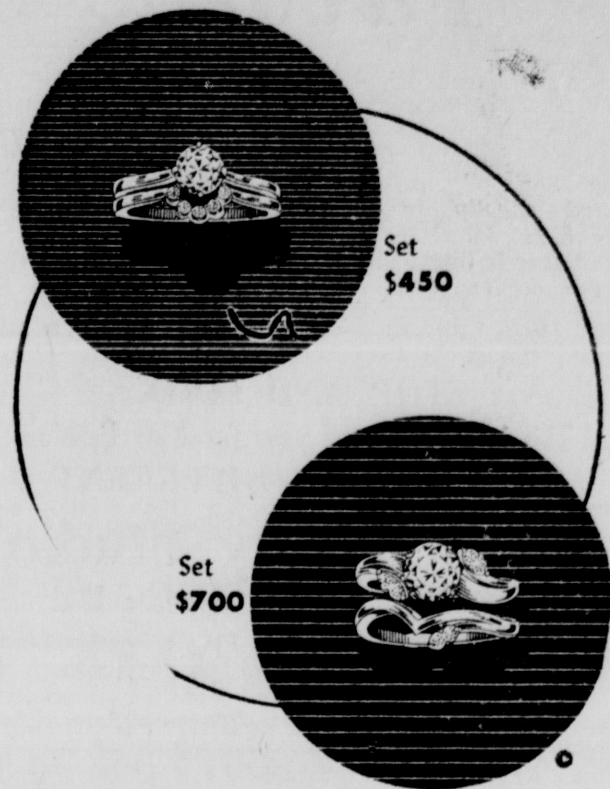

So the next time you see pollution, don't close your eyes to it.

Write a letter. Make a call. Point it out to someone who can do something about it.

People start pollution. People can stop it.

Feminine or Effective?

It depends, of course, on both your type and your taste. For the utterly feminine, the wedding set shown above is sweet, simple and girlish. For the sophisticated, the one below has an aura of drama.

Favorite Southern Creole Dish

With some bacon drippings added and perhaps some diced ham, this recipe would be called Shrimp Creole. "Zippy Shrimp" has been modified slightly for low-calorie diets. All of the good Creole flavor is there, though. ... basil, oregano and horseradish summered in a rich tomato sauce with garlic and onions. Then raw shrimp are added and simmered just until cooked. The whole flavorful mixture is served on a bed of rice. Rich in a low-calorie recipe? That's right. It contains only 82 calories per half-cup serving. And when topped with the shrimp and tomato sauce, the total calories are only 207 per serving.

In addition to fitting into the general "low-calorie" diet category, this recipe is perfect for low-fat diets, too. No fat or shortening is used in the tomato sauce and both the shrimp and the rice are very low in fat, making this a good meal for prescribed low-fat/low-cholesterol diets.

The real "zippy" flavor comes from the horseradish. This innocent looking root packs a lot of wallop after it's grated. In many areas, you can buy the root fresh (when the flavor is strongest) and grate it yourself. It's also available in a jar already grated and mixed with a little vinegar and salt.

Zippy Shrimp and Rice

1 cup chopped onions.
2 cloves garlic, crushed.
1 tablespoon butter or margarine.
1 can (16 ounces) tomatoes.
1 can (8 ounces) tomato sauce.

One-half cup of water.
1 tablespoon salt.
One-quarter teaspoon pepper.

1 teaspoon each sweet basil, oregano leaves, and prepared horseradish.

1 pound cleaned and deveined shrimp.
3 cups hot cooked rice.

Grated Parmesan cheese, optional.

Saute onions, garlic in butter until tender. Add tomatoes, tomato sauce, water, seasonings, and horseradish. Simmer for 20 minutes or until slightly thickened. Stir in shrimp and cook 10 minutes longer. Serve over beds of fluffy rice. Sprinkle with Parmesan cheese, if desired. Makes 6 servings.

Each serving provides 207 calories.
1 meat exchange.
1 bread exchange.
One-half fat exchange.

Heloise: Look Who's Going Around in Circles

Dear Heloise:

Our big family bulletin board is kept on the wall in the kitchen. One of the most important items on the board is a big calendar, a reminder on which is kept posted important dates to be remembered by the family. I devised a system so that at a glance each one can tell when they have a date to be remembered. I circle each member's date with a different color. Purple is for our daughter, blue is for my husband and mine is red. Any date circled in green is for some function for the whole family. No more last minute scrambles because of some forgotten date!

I must add I don't think I could have kept house in my nine years of marriage without the "Heloise Column."

MRS. JOAN HOVANIC

Dear Heloise:

Please tell folks that instead of stacking, there is another way of packing flat dishes or plates in a carton when you must move.

Cushion the bottom of the carton with crushed newspaper or clothing. Then stand each plate or platter on edge after wrapping, and fit the wrapped plates against each other. I have found that stacked plates and saucers, etc. are sometimes broken because of the weight of the stack.

"FROSTY"

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

Dear Heloise:

I think the perfect answer to marriage would be to have your teenage kids live two houses away from you, your husband two blocks away, your kinfolks two states and your in-laws two countries. This way ...

"HOLDING ON"

Dear Heloise:

I have a young boy of three. He knew what the "potty" was for, but he just couldn't call for it. Being as I have a younger daughter, I was getting tired of changing him.

One day I decided I'd let him run around with no diaper on — just in the house, of course. I said to him, "Now let's see what you're going to do."

To my surprise he called for the pot. I kissed him and praised him for being a good boy. From then on, after that, he called for the potty!

I hope this idea on potty-training will help other young mothers.

It's no fun changing a 3-year-old!

71 ALBANY AVENUE

KINGSTON, N.Y.

BIZARRE AND COUNTRY FAIR is scheduled to be held at St. John's Episcopal Church, 299 Albany Avenue, Kingston, on Saturday, June 30, sponsored by the Church. Included in the festivities which will continue from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m., rain or shine, will be the Sweet Adelines, Mendelssohn Club, an exhibit by the Ulster County Art Association, craft demonstrations, handicrafts, a flea market, potted flower booth and a rock band. Refreshments will be available. The committee which includes (L-R) Joan Murray, general chairman; Harry Kapreilian, barbeque chairman; Arlene Corrado, luncheonette chairman; John Ferguson, arrangements; and Don Castro, games chairman, invites everyone to attend.

CONVENTION DELEGATES—Mrs. Thomas Sherk, topic chairman for 1973-75 and Mrs. James C. Babb, president-elect for 1973-75, represented the Kingston Branch of AAUW at the New York State Division Annual Convention in Binghamton, N.Y., May 4-6. Theme of the convention was "Revealing AAUW Program Fabric." The business meeting consisted of the passing of 12 proposed resolutions plus two that were introduced from the floor. Dr. Deborah Wolfe, Professor at Queens College and an AAUW member spoke on "Dynamics of Womanhood," and Judge Nanette Dembit discussed problems of adolescence and crime, "Balancing Individual Liberty and Imposed Restraint." Dr. Ruth Watanabe discussed the art of listening to music, "You Wouldn't Believe Your Ears." Virginia Palmer spoke on "AAUW Centennial Fund—Way and How."

Tiny Tips

Never fill muffin cups more than two-thirds to three-fourths full.

To remove the chokes from artichokes try using a serrated and curved grapefruit knife.

A thin type of penetrating floor sealer with a tung oil base is good to use on slate that has become dulled and gray.

Don't use a baking pan on top of the range because it might warp when placed on a hot gas burner or electric unit.

Flatten paper bake cups and use as dividers between hamburger meat (shaped into patties) that you are storing in your freezer.

Iron rust stains on the tub? If not too dark, try rubbing a little cut lemon over the stain. It should vanish.

It's a good idea to rinse a serving plate with cold water before unmolding a gelatin salad or dessert onto it. Dry the edges of the serving plate with a paper towel after the unmolding.

Dating Game More Like Wrestling Match

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am 20 and I'm dating this guy who is 28. I like him as a date, but I don't like the battles I have with him to get him to keep his hands to himself.

Ten minutes after I'm in his car he's all over me. He is really just like a high school sophomore—only stronger. The day after I've been out with him I ache all over from fighting him off. I'm not kidding. I've even left some scratches on his hands and face in addition to ripping his shirt and breaking his wristwatch.

I am not against a little affection, but this guy acts like a sex maniac. I am no big turnon, I'm a plain-looking girl and I don't invite his advances, so I can't understand it.

How can I cool him down without losing him completely?

ARIES

DEAR ARIES: If you continue to date this guy you must be hard up. Quit while you're ahead and tell the octopus to get lost.

DEAR ABBY: Our fine, handsome grandson is graduating from college soon, after which he is marrying a nice girl he met at college. (I'll call her Mary.) Mary is one of 12 children so there wasn't much money for extras in her family. To get to the point, Mary is desperately in need of dental work. It would improve her appearance 100 percent.

I can well afford to pay for any dental work Mary needs done, but I don't know how to make the offer to our grandson without offending him. It is a wonder to us how this girl could have let her teeth get into such bad shape. And a greater wonder that our grandson wouldn't have noticed it. (Or perhaps he has, but didn't know what to do about it.)

How can we let our grandson know we will foot the bill if Mary will see a dentist?

GRANDPA

DEAR GRANDPA: Tell him (privately) what you've told me. (P.S. And since when is dental care an "extra"? It's vital to general good health.)

DEAR ABBY: I am a 16-year-old girl with a big problem. My favorite cousin is getting married in two months and my parents won't let me go to the wedding unless I take off 10 pounds! This is an awful lot to lose in two months, but my mother said she talked to the doctor and he said I could do it if I tried. Abby, I would have to live on practically nothing to lose all that weight in two months. I'm afraid I would get so weak I couldn't do as well in school, etc.

I have enough money in the bank to fly to the wedding which is across the country, but my parents say I can't go at all unless I lose 10 pounds, and if I do, they will buy my ticket.

Why are people so prejudiced against overweight people? It's as if we weren't even human.

Are my parents being unfair for excuses why you CAN'T, and start on a diet right now and you'll make it. Good luck.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "FEELING FOOLISH IN MINNEAPOLIS": No need to. More than 1,000 women wrote to ask where they could purchase false fannies.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

Sacrifice Save for Lyle

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — Sparky Lyle will sacrifice part of his body to save a game for the New York Yankees—even if it's his pitching hand.

Lyle, who recorded 35 saves for the Yankees last year, got his 10th of 1973 Tuesday night in an 8-6 victory over the Texas Rangers. He also received an imprint of the game ball on his left hand, courtesy of a line drive off the bat of Toby Harrah during a Ranger rally in the ninth inning.

With runners on first and second and two out, Harrah lined the ball at Lyle, who stuck out his bare hand and knocked the ball down. He then threw to first baseman Ron Blomberg, who promptly dropped it for an error to load the bases.

Lyle remained calm, however, and got Rico Carty to hit a grounder to deep short, from Lyle in the hectic ninth. Where Gene Michael made a quick stab and threw to second baseman Horace Clarke to force Harrah at second for the final out.

"The hand's okay, but you can see the baseball on it," Lyle said. "I could have gotten out of the way, but if I do, two runs score. I'm not going to let that happen if I can help it."

Hart Homers

Jim Ray Hart clubbed a three-run homer, Roy White smacked a two-run shot and Blomberg knocked in three runs as the Yankees raked Ranger starter Sonny Siebert.

But the Rangers sent Yankee starter Mel Stottlemyre to the showers in the sixth. Lindy McDaniel, the winner, relieved Stottlemyre, then needed help from Lyle in the hectic ninth. Harrah almost won the game for Texas with a long drive that curved foul over the left field fence.

"I give up a lot of foul balls off my slider," Lyle said, smiling as he examined his red — but not swollen — pitching hand.

When asked if he thought about taking Lyle out after Harrah's liner to the box, Yankee Manager Ralph Houk replied, "The way Sparky has been going, if he says he can pitch he's gonna pitch. He did a helluva job knocking the ball down."

Houk had praise for Michael Carty's grounder to deep short, saying, "It was a real clutch play. He's that kind of a player... a clutch player." Blomberg, the near-goat, said, "If we had lost, I'd still be standing out there. I started to catch the ball, then just looked away. It sure made things interesting."

What's With Wood?

The question in the American League suddenly is not whether Wilbur Wood will win 30 games or even 40 but rather when will he win No. 14?

Wilbur Wonderful's knuckleball failed him again Tuesday night as the Baltimore Orioles rallied for four runs in the eighth inning to defeat the Chicago White Sox 7-4 and hand Wood his second loss in a row since he notched both his 12th and 13th victories on May 28.

Elsewhere in the American League, the Detroit Tigers downed the California Angels 5-2, the Boston Red Sox trounced the Kansas City Royals 9-2 and the Milwaukee Brewers edged the Oakland A's 5-4. Minnesota and Cleveland were rained out with the Twins leading 4-0 in the third inning, washing out home runs by Harmon Killebrew and Rod Carew.

Wood's pitching actually was more impressive than the seven runs he surrendered. He yielded a ground single to Bobby Grich in the first inning and then retired the Orioles in order until Brooks Robinson and Paul Blair hit ground singles with two out in the fifth.

Boog Powell followed with a towering fly right at the right field foul pole for his second home run of the season and first since April 27, wiping out a 2-0 Chicago lead on Dick Allen's 13th homer.

Eddie Brinkman drove in two runs with a homer and double and reliever John Hiller posted his 11th save of the season in the Tigers' victory over the Angels.

Hiller bailed winner Jim Perry out of a bases-loaded, two-out situation in the sixth when he fanned pinch hitter Winston Llenas on three pitches. He then stopped the Angels on one hit the rest of the way as the Tigers maintained their 1 1/2-game lead over New York in the AL East.

Carlton Fisk drove in four runs for the second game in a row with a homer and double, powering the Red Sox over the Royals behind Marty Pattin's seven-hit pitching.

Don Money greeted reliever Rolie Fingers with a leadoff home run in the ninth inning, snapping a tie and boosting the surprising Brewers over the A's. Money cracked a 2-0 pitch from Fingers over the left field fence for his fourth home run of the season, stretching the Brewers' winning streak to five games—three over the White Sox and two over the world champion A's.

LIKE MARK SPITZ—A driving rain storm canceled the Cleveland-Minnesota game after two and a half innings Tuesday, but did not dampen the spirits of Mike Adams (foreground) and Danny Walton of Minnesota as they make like Mark Spitz. Water was five-feet deep in runway leading to dressing room. (UPI)

HOUSTON (UPI) — With his said the Aeros had made him an offer but it wasn't enough. "Jim (Smith) and I are going to think about it and then talk again," he said. "We are in the same ballpark but the figure will have to be a little closer than it is now. It's just a matter of putting it in one word—money."

Howe, who has been a vice president of the Red Wings since retiring Sept. 9, 1971, after 25 years in the NHL, said he felt awkward about negotiating a contract with the Aeros since he was still being paid by Detroit.

But he said he always wanted to play on the same team with his sons and would sign if he and Smith can agree to terms.

Howe joined the rival National Hockey League when he was 18 and rose to become one of the games' greatest stars. He

Bench Shows His Worth

By United Press International

Johnny Bench, who started the season as something of a question mark because of lung surgery last year and is hitting like a hot bat, hit homer No. 12 Tuesday night—and it demonstrated for any disbelievers that he might still be around who is considered such a great player.

The drive was a three-run homer off reliever Phil Hennigan, capping a four-run, 10th-inning rally which enabled the Reds to defeat the New York Mets, 6-5. The Mets apparently had clinched the game when they scored three runs to take a 5-2 lead in the top of the 10th.

"I don't care if Johnny Bench is (only) hitting .136," said Manager Sparky Anderson of the Cincinnati Reds. "He's the man we want at the plate when there's a game to be won."

St. Louis Cardinals defeated San Diego, 5-3. San Francisco beat Pittsburgh, 3-2. Los Angeles clubbed Chicago, 10-1. Philadelphia blanked Houston, 4-0, and Montreal scored a 7-6 11-inning victory over Atlanta in the other NL games.

Duffy Dyer's bases-filled triple off Don Gullett, on which Bobby Tolan missed a shoe-string catch, gave the Mets their 5-2 lead in the 10th but Tug McGraw and Hennigan didn't retire a batter in the Cincinnati half of the inning. Gullett received credit for the victory although the most effective Cincinnati pitcher in the game was Ross Grimsley, who allowed two runs in the first five innings.

The Cardinals scored their victory when Jose Cruz' two-run triple broke a 2-2 tie with San Diego in the eighth inning. Cruz scored the third run of the inning on a wild pitch by Bill Greif who suffered his sixth loss. Jerry Morales hit a two-run homer for the Padres.

Ed Goodson's second run-scoring double of the game snapped a 2-2 tie in the seventh and paved the way for Ron Bryant to win his ninth game by hitting for the relief of Randy Moffitt. Goodson only .236, hit homer No. 12 Tuesday night—and it demonstrated for any disbelievers that he might still be around who is considered such a great player.

Ed Goodson's second run-scoring double of the game

their victory at Chicago. Claude Osteen went 6 2-3 innings for his sixth win while Ferguson Jenkins, tagged for six runs and nine hits in seven innings, was dealt his fourth loss against six wins.

Larry Bowa went 4-for-4, scored three runs and stole two bases while Wayne Twitchell pitched a seven-hitter for his fourth victory for the Phillies. Jerry Reuss suffered his fourth defeat against six victories for the Astros.

Ron Fairly homered with two out in the 11th inning to bring the Expos their win over the Braves. Mike Marshall went the last five innings for the Expos to win his sixth game against four defeats. Bob Bailey and Ken Singleton also homered for the Expos while Ralph Garr connected for the Braves.

FLASHBACK—Willie Mays, fresh off the disabled list, slides underneath Reds' catcher Bill Plummer to score in first inning of Tuesday's game. Mays scored from first on Rusty Staub's double to left. Satch Davidson is the ump. Reds won, 6-5, in 10 innings. (UPI)

An Ambidextrous Met

NEW YORK (AP) — The injury-troubled New York Mets have come up with a solution for their health problems. They have drafted an ambidextrous outfielder.

He's Lee Mazzilli of Brooklyn, and he was the 14th player chosen Tuesday in baseball's summer free agent draft. Joe McDonald, director of Mets, announced the selection.

reporting that Mazzilli, "Bats right-left. Throws right-left." If he hurts one hand, a regular Met hazard these days, he can use the other.

Mazzilli, like most of the other high school hot shots drafted Tuesday, will have to decide between professional baseball and college. He has a four-year scholarship offer from Arizona State, which has produced a large share of major leaguers.

The No. 1 choice in the draft went to the Texas Rangers, and they took Houston schoolboy pitcher David Clyde, who, unlike Mazzilli, throws with only one hand—his left.

Clyde, with nine career no-hitters to his credit, has averaged two strikeouts per inning for Westchester High School. He has won 17 games without a loss this season and owns a career earned run average of 0.66.

For the first time, the draft was completed in one day. A total of 785 players were selected, including 48 in the secondary phase for players previously drafted but not signed.

San Diego's first round selection, Dave Winfield of the University of Minnesota, was listed as a pitcher, outfielder and first baseman, making him the most versatile player chosen, at least in terms of positions played.

Ilie Was Ready

PARIS (AP) — Ilie Nastase, newly crowned French Open champion, thinks some of his main rivals played too much tennis during the winter.

"Most of them came straight from the indoor circuit," the 26-year-old Romanian star said. "I played seven or eight tournaments on clay first, and I think it was the right preparation."

Nastase demolished Nikki Pilic of Yugoslavia 6-3, 6-3, 6-0 in the final Tuesday and won the world's most coveted clay court title for the first time without losing a set in the entire tournament.

Crenshaw Barely Makes It

By United Press International

It's been 40 years since an amateur has won the U.S. Open golf championship and the man currently given the best chance of accomplishing the feat, Ben Crenshaw, barely qualified for this year's event.

Crenshaw of Austin, Tex., had to survive a playoff for the final spot in the sectional qualifier at Pittsburgh Tuesday before nailing down his place in the field of 150 that will tee off June 14 at Oakmont, Pa., in the 73rd Open.

Johnny Goodman, in 1933, was the last amateur to capture the U.S. Open.

Tuesday was the final day of qualifying and among those failing were 1965 PGA champion Dave Marr, who shot 76-72-148, and 1947 Open champion

Lew Worsham, who shot 78-75-153. Worsham is host pro at Oakmont.

Ralph Johnston of Garden City, N.Y., who has been on the tour only 2 1/2 years, won medalist honors over a group of tour regulars at Philadelphia with a pair of 70's for a 140 total, two strokes ahead of Dave Eichelberger.

Among the other qualifiers at Philadelphia were Lee Elder and Ron Cerrudo, but George Knudson and former PGA champion Bob Rosburg failed to survive.

George Bayer's 144 earned medalist honors at Detroit while veteran Doug Ford was among the qualifiers at New York.

Three Straight UCAL Titles for Marlboro

He checked Lofaro, and an error by centerfielder Steve Foster produced Marlboro's final four runs in the sixth.

A lot of people were willing to risk the family fortune on Red Hook High School's chances for winning the UCAL baseball championship this season. The Raiders, a veteran all hallclub, just missed it all last championship club he inherited took it, and once the Raiders baseball dynasty of sorts.

Marlboro coach Neil Fino. So what happened? Marlboro was inexperienced. Marlboro whipped Liberty, 7-1, at Highland High School on Tuesday afternoon and in the process wrapped up championship No. 3 (as in three in a row) and laid claim to a local degree. "Only two starters returned Jones wrapped Liberty into a nice little package. He checked Lofaro, and an error by centerfielder Steve Foster produced Marlboro's final four runs in the sixth.

Foster started on the mound for Liberty and was lifted in favor of Ivan Richards just prior to the outfield error. So Marlboro has done it again. Was there every any doubt?

Hurley Lions Win BRL Opener

KINGSTON — Trailing 4-2, the Hurley Lions scored eight runs in the fifth and sixth innings to overhaul Kiwanis 10-5 in the American Division Babe Ruth League opener Tuesday at Dietz Stadium.

Jim Murphy limited Kiwanis to three hits — one a homer by Jerry Hart — struck out 10 and knocked in two runs with a single. The Lions scored 11 hits off the combined serves of Paul Runge and Al Johnson, with Runge, who fanned nine, taking the loss.

David Loeffler was the batting star for the Lions, with a triple, three singles and four runs batted in on four at bats. Vin Dingman hit a single and triple and knocked in two runs. Two walks and two errors accounted for two Kiwanis runs in the first and Hart's two-run homer put them ahead 4-2 in the third. The Lions scored twice in the first inning on two walks and Loeffler's triple. Hurley went ahead 7-5 in the fifth, scoring five runs on key hits by Dingman (triple), Rick Meiers and Loeffler's two-run single. Five singles accounted for the three Lions tallies in the sixth inning.

Kevin Boyd walked, stole second and third and scored on a balk for Kiwanis' last tally in the sixth.

QUILTY'S TOP VFW IN JUNIOR BRL
Quilty Insurance scored four runs in the first inning and held on to edge Veterans of Foreign Wars, 6-5, in the Junior Babe Ruth League.

Pete Shultis pitched a 4-hitter in defeat for VFW. The winners collected nine hits off Mark Chapman, including a double by Tony Turck.

Lucky Bonnie Advances Beutler

PORTHCAWL, Wales (AP)—the 18th hole Tuesday against three-putted at the par 3, 152-yard 14th—and Milne was back in contention.

Beutler, a 19-year-old student who invaded the British Amateur Golf Championship on the strength of a bank loan, moved into today's third round by virtue of a fortunate bounce.

Ron Burris slammed two homers and two singles in five trips and knocked in five runs to pace Circle Cab to a 23-14 win over Keyser's in a 44-hit slugfest.

In other games, Perry's trounced Pepper's Garage, 12-5, with Pete Perry pitching shut-out ball until the seventh; Lansdell tripped Guido's Rest 12-10, despite two Guido homers by Corey Chamberlain; Boulevard Gulf routed Country Kitchen 14-8 and in the best-pitched game of the night, Frank Misasi unfurled a 7-hitter to pace Carriage House to a 8-2 triumph over RNC Advertising.

Bob Astalos doubled and tripled. Mike Jordan and John Cook furnished single-homer combinations to pace Carriage House. Rick Shomer had slugged three singles for RNC.

MANY LUXURY CARS DON'T GO FAR ENOUGH.

All of them have power steering and power brakes as standard. Most don't even offer fuel injection or four-wheel power-assisted disc brakes. But you have to pay extra for air conditioning and radial tires on some. The Volvo 164E offers all the above as standard. Others make you pay extra to sit on leather.

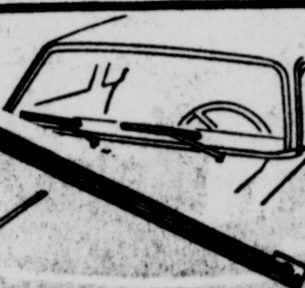

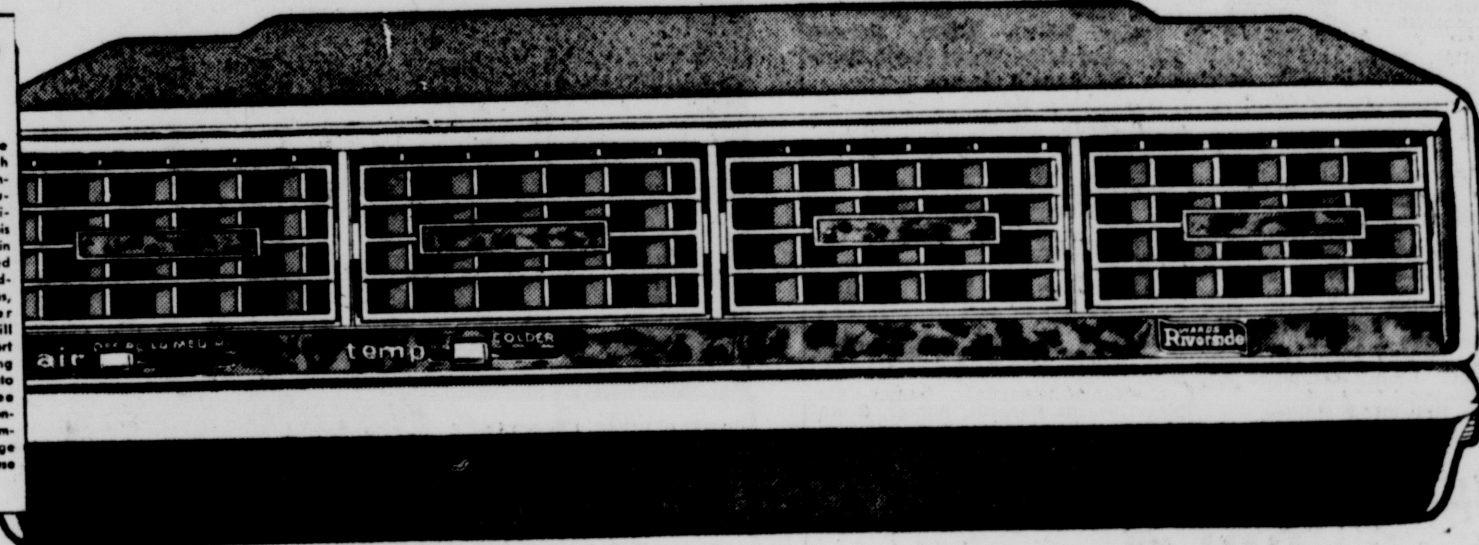

So does one other popular imported car. But it goes for around $14,000. And that's going too far.

Vlad Hoyt, Mrs. Pitcock Lead Golf Day

KINGSTON deadline a week after getting Woodstock Country Club's off to a late start. Twenty-six Vlad Hoyt beat Jack Nicklaus by six strokes over the weekend, and while that match was in progress, Mrs. Dennis Pitcock burned up the Twaalfskill course with a scorching 56 to whip Donna Caponi Young by 25 shots.

Technically speaking, that is. Hoyt and Mrs. Pitcock were two of 24 Ulster County linksters who with handicaps bettered the target scores of the National Golf's Day Round of Champions.

A charity event that has run annually for 23 years, National Golf Day pits the country's amateurs against the top men and women pros. The respective U.S. Open and PGA champions play a round of golf, the best scores of which become the standards for the participants. This year at the Canterbury C. C. in Cleveland, Nicklaus shot a 70 for the men, and Mrs. Young posted 80.

Twaalfskill led the area clubs with ten winners out of more than 40 entries. At Wiltwyck, two emerged from a field of 42. Woodstock contributed six winners out of 30 entries, and a pair from Rondout Golf, Pool Tennis made the cut. Half of Locust Tree's eight participants were successful, but the New Rich Siegel shot 95-25.

Mrs. Pitcock led her contingent with a strong round of 90 and a 34 handicap. Mrs. Amelio Groppe shot 81-14, 67. Mrs. Ed O'Reilly shot 104-27. Mrs. N. Levan Haver had 102-25, 77, and Mrs. Bud Davis recorded 103-24. 79. Dennis Pitcock shot a net 64 to pace the Twaalfskill men. He had 80-16 to lead Jim Connolly with 87-21, 66. Tom Glynn at 84-17, 67. Tom Fuoco at 90-23, 67, and Dr. Douw Meyers at 86-17, 69.

Hoyt's gross 71 was assisted by a seven handicap at Woodstock. He led Robert Walker, 87-22, and Don Murphy, 79-14, by one stroke. Also at Woodstock, Charlie Prill fired 86-18, 68. Mort Vrett shot 84-16, 68, and Alex Sharpe had 80-12, 68.

Wiltwyck was playing long, but Vic Hake met the test with 79-10 for a net 69. Pappy Bostic was the only other winner here, shooting 79 with a 97 gross and an 18 handicap.

Walt Yeager tamed Locust Tree with 81-16, 65. Sam Krieg was next at 93-26, 67, and two other golfers matched net 70's. Bill Rhinehart fired 96-26, and the Rich Siegel shot 95-25.

Mickey Gorman and Mike Scudder were the only two to conquer the distance at Rondout.

Winners will receive prizes, and all participants will receive souvenirs of the event. The entry fee, are donated to golf projects and golf-related charities. Turf research, caddie scholarships, the National Amputee Golf Association and United Voluntary Golf Services are among this year's beneficiaries. Since 1952, National Golf Day has raised over $1.8 million.

Kicker Squad Enjoys Its Best Season Ever

MORGAN HILL Kingston Sport Club Kickers finished their best season ever Sunday and they did it just as they'd hoped: with a win over arch-rival Poughkeepsie (3-1) in a game dedicated to former club president Bill Oehler on the occasion of the last contest on his field at Oehler's Mountain Lodge.

"It was a real team effort with all the players giving their best," exclaimed Kickers publicist Ken Pratt.

The victory lifted Kingston's pennant winning League Division record to 12-3-1 and helped the Kickers maintain the momentum they hope will carry them right through a series of exhibition games this summer and then into next season when they figure to be elevated once again to the Premier Division.

The game was scoreless until the 30 minute mark of the first half when veteran Reiner Schwell bootied one past Poughkeepsie netminder Peter Bunk.

Kingston extended the count to 2-0 at 67 minutes of the second half on a goal by Frankie Goglia with an assist from Gerry Lee Hing. Four minutes later it was 3-0 as Elliot Pobbi-Asare, the famed "Gallop'n' Ghanian", took a pass from his fellow New Paltz State All-American Gino Ventriglia and found the range.

Only a penalty kick by Poughkeepsie's Dieter Brose managed to get past the outstretched fingertips of Kingston goalie Joel Tomson.

The work of Tomson and right fullback Karl Peter Menzildjian drew special plaudits from Pratt for fine defensive work. "Menzildjian made a spectacular save at the goalmouth when Tomson was out of position," recalled Pratt. "It looked like a sure goal. Tomson, himself, had some fine saves. One in particular looked like it was headed for the net, but he made an excellent stop."

Sawyer Softies In Late Start

SAUGERTIES Now that the weather has cleared, organizers of the Saugerties Softball League are hoping to go full speed ahead with play in their largest season ever. But for a time, it looked like they'd never get things underway.

"When it hasn't rained, the field has been flooded," moaned league president Jack Keeley. "During the first three weeks, with 34 games scheduled, we were able to play but six."

One division that has been seeing some action is the D loop where Village Cobblers has jumped to an early lead by winning its first three games.

In the opener, the Cobblers downed Helmsmoortel Insurance, 15-5, in five and a half innings as Bill Fisceletti got the win. Offensive support was provided by Joey Brocco single, triple (three RBI's), Bill Bonnelly, Walt Hillje, Vince Ferraro, Rich Brocco, and Fisceletti.

The Cobblers then rode Fisceletti's five hitter to a 10-1 triumph over Mr. T's Pizza with Joey Brocco lacing three hits. The third win was an 11-6 game over Boo's Tavern. Nick DeGregoria was the pitcher on the plus side and Tony Buono the hitting star with three safeties. Pat Scarselli has a homer for the winners while Bob Schoenbacher cracked two singles and a double in defeat.

In another game, Helmsmoortel Insurance beat C & L Aquarium, 11-2, behind the pitching of Mike Sommers and the hitting of Tom Zulick (three hits) and Bob Nace (single and homer).

The standings:
Village Cobblers 3 0
Helmsmoortel Ins. 1 1
Knights on Col. 0 0
Boo's Tavern 0 1
C & L Aquarium 0 1
Mr. T's Pizza 0 1

Brach Resigns In Shawangunk

SHAWANGUNK The Shawangunk Planning Board accepted the resignation of Chairman Robert Brach at its monthly meeting Tuesday night.

His resignation will become effective July 1. Brach has served as board chairman for the past eight years and said that he is stepping down due to pressures caused by his running for reelection as a county legislator and commitments to his lumber business.

Brach also served two years as chairman of the Ulster County Planning Board, during which time the office of planning director was established. While Brach has been chairman in Shawangunk, the town has made a study and completed a master development plan. A zoning ordinance was subsequently prepared and enacted for this plan.

"We were fortunate to complete this (master plan and zoning ordinance) just prior to the great growth that will reach the town due to the Stewart Jetport complex," said Brach.

Appeals Primary Still Undecided

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The polls closed two days ago, but it was still unclear today who was the victor in the four-way race for the Democratic nomination for chief judge of the Court of Appeals.

Jacob Fuchsberg, a trial lawyer in Manhattan, was 2,500 votes ahead of his nearest rival but refused to claim victory. "I've been a lawyer too long to pronounce a verdict before the jury comes in," he said.

U.S. District Court Judge Jack Weinstein of Great Neck trailed Fuchsberg but refused to concede defeat. Campaign aides were looking for pockets of support in the upstate votes that have yet to be counted.

He also asked the Secretary of State's office to impound the voting machines in preparation for a demand for a recount.

The other two candidates—Justice Francis Murphy of the Bronx, a member of the Appellate Division of State Supreme Court, and Supreme Court Justice Irwin Brownstein of Brooklyn—trailed far behind and were out of the race.

The race was expected to be decided in Albany County, which was tardy in tabulating the paper ballots. "We're not going to start counting the judges' race until the latter part of the week. We're still going over the local stuff here," an official of the county Board of Elections told callers Tuesday.

Communist Aid Expands in Africa

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russia and Communist China are quietly expanding military aid to African countries as they maneuver for influence and support there, according to U.S. intelligence sources.

Overshadowed by crises elsewhere, the sometimes competing Soviet and Chinese moves in Africa are logged by U.S. intelligence officials who consider them important in the global power balance.

The U.S. arms aid program in Africa is strictly limited by Congress, with Ethiopia and Tunisia sharing the total $13 million in grants proposed for the new fiscal year starting next month.

A series of U.S. intelligence reports traces a pattern of Communist Chinese and Soviet aid initiatives in at least eight African countries.

According to one recent report, Red China is preparing to provide Tanzania with its first jet fighter planes, a squadron of 20 MIG 19s and MIG 17s, by late this year.

Peking sent the Sudan six MIG 19s last year when the Communist Chinese were trying to capitalize on the Sudan's alienation from Russia. China also started about $42 million in economic aid projects there.

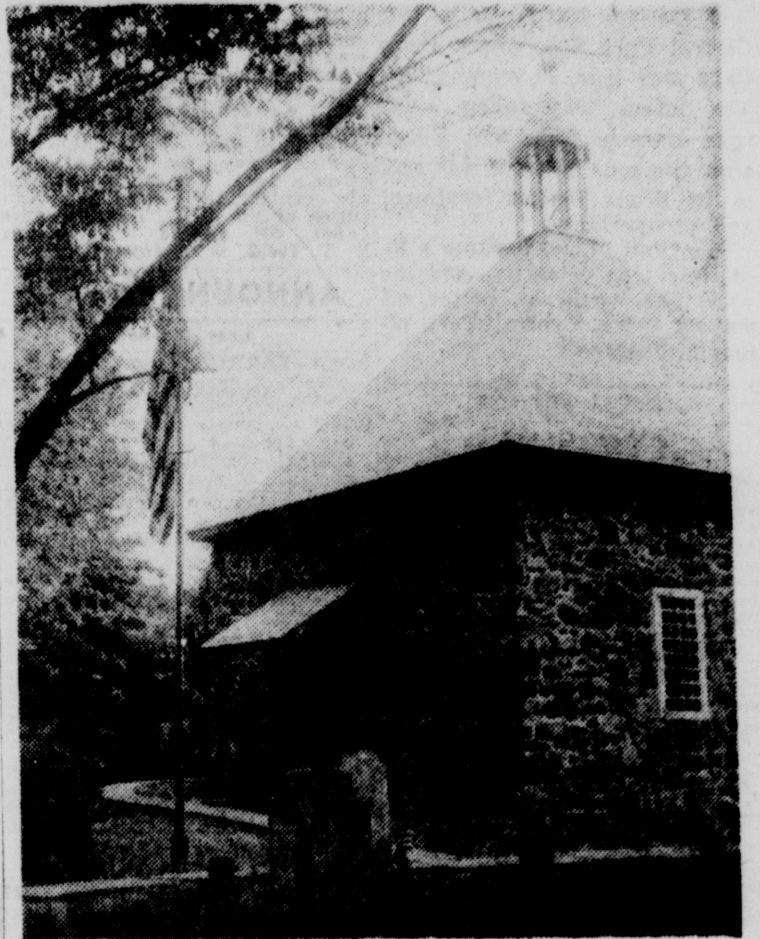

Since then the Sudanese leaders, who blamed the Russians for allegedly helping in a coup attempt against them, have made up with Moscow and the Russians are building a logistical complex in the Sudan, among other things.

GOP Session

The next regular meeting of the New Paltz Republican Club will be held Tuesday, June 12, at 8 p.m. at Dominick's Restaurant, North Chestnut Street, New Paltz. Final arrangements for the fund raising wine and cheese party to be held Sunday, June 17 from 7 to 9 p.m. at Dominick's, will be completed. All members may attend.

Some people learn the hard way. Paychecks disappear fast.

Day-to-day living expenses eat up a lot. And maybe part goes in the savings account for this year's vacation or another immediate goal.

A good chunk of that money seems to disappear by itself.

So it's no wonder that when it comes to long-term goals, or when an emergency comes up, there simply aren't funds to meet the need.

Unless there was a nest egg building up all that time.

A good way to build that nest egg is with U.S. Savings Bonds. The easy way to buy them is to sign up for the Payroll Savings Plan where you work.

An amount you specify will be set aside from your paycheck and used to buy Bonds.

And while you're going through grocery bills, car repairs, vacation weekends, kids' toys and nights out on the town, you'll know you're saving money too.

That's good to know.

Now U.S. Bonds pay 5 1/2% interest when held to maturity of 1 year, 10 months (4% the first year). Bonds are replaced if lost, stolen, or destroyed. When needed they can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

Take stock in America.
Join the Payroll Savings Plan.

Sen. Dirksen Memories

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—The widow of Sen. Everett Dirksen appeared Monday on NBC-TV's morning Dinah Shore series, and I couldn't help thinking of a memorable 1968 video special that focused on the legislator.

How that man could talk! One of the most influential and colorful senators in American history, he was, with his speaking gifts and mellifluous tones, totally at home before the cameras in that 1968 prime-time ABC-TV hour in which he offered a tour of the Capitol Building in Washington.

His widow Louella has told of her life with him in her book "The Honorable Mr. Marigold," written in collaboration with sportswriter Norma Lee Browning. And what with that, and Monday's television program, and the memory of the senator's video special of five years ago with newsmen Howard K. Smith as his tour companion, one is reminded of Dirksen's singular style with the language, and can almost hear him now:

He Speaks on Words

On the subject of words: "I must use beautiful words. I never know when I might have to eat them."

On marigolds (which he wanted to have named as America's national flower): "You can't beat a marigold... It has humility, it has pungency, and it is resistant to man and bug and beast."

On the uses of the voice: "The voice is like an organ and must be suited to the occasion, the subject and the audience. Sometimes all stops are out and sometimes... for contrast, it must be soft and modulated."

On history: "Sometimes the history book rises up and smites you."

On words again: "Certain words are brightly colored, like the red, white and blue of the flag; some are pastels, and others are the multicolored hues of a sunset or rainbow."

On being vice president: "I would have to dedicate roads and courthouses and bow to visiting princes and kings. I am not a candidate."

You Make a Start

On preparing speeches: "I do not write speeches. I find a quiet room, sit at a desk, and stare at the wall. If there is a crack in the wall, so much the better; there is no greater stimulus to the imagination. How did that crack get there? Does it go completely through the plaster? The mind seeks the answers and out of this reflection you make a start, you lay out a text, you develop it, and you prepare the final clout."

On criticism: "I count that day lost when I don't catch hell from somebody."

The 1968 telecast noted that Dirksen was the last of a breed—or maybe the first. And the program included a visit to his home town of Pekin, Ill., where one of his brothers recalled how young Everett used to practice his oration in the barn, and how you could hear him from the barn to the kitchen. His mother would remark, "Now just listen to him talk."

Cement Boat Industry Showing Signs of Life in Area

PREPARING FRAMED HULL FOR CEMENT COAT

TOWN OF ULSTER
"Hey fella. Wanna buy the Brooklyn Bridge?"
"No, but I'll give you a fantastic deal on a cement boat."

There's only one con artist in this imaginary conversation. According to the experts, cement is the hottest innovation to hit the boat building industry since the oar.

And two local men are on the ground floor of what may soon become a booming business. John F. Borchardt and Kurt C. Schoch are president and vice-president respectively of Ulster Marine, Inc., which occupies offices on Ulster Landing Road and Kukuk Lane in the Town of Ulster.

Ulster Marine was founded in 1969. Since that time, two cement boats have been built and sold; two others are presently under construction.

That averages out to one boat a year; not exactly a pace guaranteed to set the business world on its ear. But the long dormant cement boat industry now shows signs of springing to life.

Anyone who dates back to World War II surely remembers the mammoth transports and barges that featured cement hulls. That they could maneuver at all was incomprehensible; that they even stayed afloat was, to the uninitiated, simply astounding.

It wasn't until recent years, however, that ship builders were able to master the design of cement hulls of a reasonable size and proportion. Anything over 100 feet in length is simply not feasible for small commercial fishermen and pleasure boaters.

Now, at shipyards in Canada and Australia, on the West Coast and along the eastern seaboard, boat-builders are comparing the ferro-cement mania to the fiberglass boom that was launched several years ago.

Ferro-cement has some undeniably attractive qualities that its advocates say may some day spell the demise of traditional wood and steel boat hulls.

To begin with, the material is surprisingly light. A ferro-cement boat hull weighs nine pounds per square inch, compared to 12 pounds for wood and 15 pounds for steel.

It is unquestionably stronger than wood, and many say it has qualities of strength and flexibility that can't be matched by wood or steel. And, unlike any other boat-building material, cement increases in strength and toughness for 50 years after it's applied.

Ferro cement is extremely flexible, a definite advantage in weathering hard-pounding ocean swells. A six-foot by 12-inch section of five-eighths inch ferro cement can be flexed at angles up to 15 degrees . . . by hand pressure alone.

It is corrosion-proof, rot-proof, worm-proof and fire-proof.

It is impervious to oil, water and marine life and is unaffected by freezing and thawing.

Thermal conductivity is less than that of steel. A ferro-cement boat remains cooler in the summer and warmer in the winter. Sound conductivity is minimal.

Special

Damage to ferro-cement is easily repaired, and it is the only material that can be easily and permanently repaired below the waterline at sea.

But all the advantages of ferro-cement never really meant very much until Borchardt and Schoch developed something that they call the "Gunnite" process. In simple terms, it enables the cement to be applied with a spray gun, replacing the tried-and-true, but painstaking, applied-by-hand process.

It takes the personnel at Ulster Marine some 200 man hours to build a cement boat from the bottom up. After the craft is designed, a metal and wood frame is erected inside a barn-sized room at the Ulster Marine Plant. Six layers of wire mesh are then interwoven with the frame, the half-inch coat of cement is then applied as the last step in the process.

After the 28-day drying period, Ulster Marine (or the boat owner) will then install all the interior fittings, cabin equipment and engine. Because the ferro-cement coating is thinner than comparable wood or steel, interior space can be increased by as much as 12 per cent.

To date, Ulster Marine has built two 37-foot cement trawlers. A 40-foot motor-sailer, which will cost about $65,000, has already been designed and framed, and is awaiting its coat of cement. Ulster Marine even took a rotting 40-foot hull, stripped off the old wood, and restored the boat with gleaming cement hull. The craft is now as good as new, if not better.

It's still not economical to build a 20 or 30-foot cement boat. Anything longer is fine; 65-80 feet is preferable. Schoch estimated a cement hull alone will cost 15 per cent less than a comparable fiberglass hull, and that substantial savings will be realized in maintenance costs. A cement hull, naturally, doesn't have to be caulked and repaired every Spring.

Ulster Marine's short range goal is to build a stock hull and turn out, in assembly line fashion, a veritable fleet of cement boats. The future, beyond that, is uncertain. "No one knows what the ultimate possibilities are for ferro-cement," said Schoch. He and his partner, however, are willing to find out.

Sloane Is Selected United Way Leader

The 1974 United Way Campaign for Ulster County will be headed by William G. Sloane of Woodstock. His selection as general campaign chairman was announced today by Glenn B. Sutherland, president of the United Way Board of Directors. In making the announcement, Sutherland said, "In a determined effort to make the 1974 Ulster County United Way Campaign a successful one, the Board of Directors of the United Way is pleased to announce that Bill Sloane has accepted the position of general campaign chairman for 1974. Bill Sloane, as associate chairman last year under Al Brocco, brings with him the experience, knowledge and capabilities to insure our success."

Sloane, in accepting the chairmanship said, "The United Way of Ulster County needs the help of everyone in the county, if the 15 member agencies are to continue to serve their needs. For too many years, funds have been cut from the agency budgets, causing them to curtail or suspend necessary programs. Only by raising more money can the United Way help these agencies continue to serve us."

Sloane is vice-president of Manufacturing for Rotron, Inc. in Woodstock. Prior to coming to Rotron, Sloane was president of the Diaco Division of Houdaille Industries in Lake City, Minn., and for seven years he served as general manager of the Motor Products Division of the Singer Company in Anderson.

Sloane is a graduate of Worcester Polytechnic Institute, holding a Bachelor of Science degree in Mechanical Engineering. He has been a guest lecturer for the American Management Association and, prior to relocating in Ulster County, has been affiliated with the Chamber of Commerce, United Way and Kiwanis Club.

Sloane, his wife Shirley, and three of their children, Beth, Carl and Amy, reside in Woodstock. Their oldest daughter, Ellen, attends St. Olaf College in Northfield, Minn.

Pair of Landmarks Cited in Red Hook

RED HOOK measure of protection against its destruction. And Elmendorf Inn, a former stagecoach stop on the Albany Post Road, has attracted the interest of Dutchess County Landmarks Association.

Maizefield, originally a rectangular two-story structure built around 1795, is judged among the finest of the more spacious post-Revolutionary Dutchess houses.

First recorded owner of this brick home was General David Van Ness, an officer during the Revolution, a State Assemblyman, and State Senator.

David was the brother of Peter Van Ness, the creator of the Columbia County estate Lindenwald, home of former President Martin Van Buren that has just recently been accorded the distinction of becoming a national historic site.

Maizefield is owned and occupied by B. B. Eggert at 75 West Market Street. And the Elmendorf Inn, at the corner of Route 9 north and Cherry Street, was the subject of a letter to the Grand Union Company from the Landmarks Association.

The letter thanked Grand Union, which owns the property, for aiding in protecting this historic landmark. The building is reportedly to be sold to Vincent Mulford for restoration.
